

Christmas Of Sorts Coming To Scarred Watts

By DAVE SMITH

Los Angeles (AP) — A Christmas tree, branches heavy with artificial snow, twinkles gaily atop the roof of the Canadian Bar, its colored lights gleaming down upon colored faces.

People pass in and out, and on down Central Avenue, past yawning lots where buildings used to be, past blackened piles of brick and ash which still strike a note of menace on a quiet street.

An old Cadillac halts for a red light, and over the car radio a chorus exhorts: "Deck the halls with boughs of holly." Three young Negroes in the front seat shout in raucous disharmony: "Fa-la-la-la-la, la-la-la-la!"

Even Here

Christmas is coming. Even in South Los Angeles, Watts, Willowbrook and Compton, where 34 persons were killed and $40 million in property was destroyed in the Negro riots of last August, Christmas is coming.

But here, visions of sugar-plums dance in the heads of very few. Most have never had such visions, and for others — well, they blew away with the smoke from the fires of August.

Here, the spirit of Christmas is bitterness for the young, resignation for the old, and all too rarely, a flicker of hope, like the tree on the Canadian Bar.

Like Always
"Just the same as they always did. Most of them never had much Christmas, so what's different this year, except some of them got less than ever?"

"I mean, I feel the same. I wasn't in on the riots, and I think they went too far, but I wasn't all that sorry they happened. And I think a lot of people think like I do — let's see if the riots woke anybody up. People down here aren't going to keep on living like they have been, and that's why the riot. It wasn't really a riot anyway, it was a rebellion. Against all you white folks, 'cause you people just don't know or care how other people have to live."

At the corner of Avalon and Imperial Boulevards, where the riot was born in an everyday drunken driving arrest, is a sight now common throughout the 50 square miles scorched by the violence — an empty lot with a tile floor. It used to be a string of stores.

Four blocks north, an old man sits in a rubble-covered lot, chipping mortar off bricks that will one day be thought so attractive in the facade of a suburban home. What will Christmas mean to him this year? "Christmas, hell!" he barks. "I never had no Christmas. Get away."

A boy about 13, strolling with two other youths, is painfully derisive.

"Me. I just love everybody. I love Jesus and the white man and everybody. And I'm gonna buy my old lady a pink coat for Christmas and if I knew where he was at I'd buy my old man a big Chrysler Imp-pee-ee-yall."

This Yuletide Different, But Happy For Zocholls

The Christmas season is traditionally one of family reunions for the Eugene Zocholls of St. Paul—but this year it will be spent in a hospital room.

Yet, it will be a happy yuletide.

Zocholl, 46, a rural mail carrier, was seriously injured last Nov. 10 in a two-car pile-up seven miles south of St. Paul.

He lay unconscious in Lincoln General Hospital until two days ago when he took a turn for the better.

"It was very encouraging and quite a Christmas gift," said Mrs. Zocholl, who has been by her husband's bedside nearly every day since the accident.

"We were beginning to wonder if he would ever recognize anyone. He just seemed so lifeless."

Mrs. Zocholl said she has "strong hopes" that her husband will be well enough to return to St. Paul early next year, maybe even resume his mail route.

"Even though we will spend this Christmas in his hospital room, it will be a happy Christmas," she said.

Mrs. Zocholl said the couple's friends back in St. Paul have been "just wonderful" through it all. She said they have sent many words of encouragement.

Zocholl, St. Paul city golf champ four out of the last five years, was injured when he pulled his northbound car onto U.S. 281 after making a mail delivery. He collided with a car driven by Clarence Jones, 58, St. Paul.

Zocholl, long active in American Legion activities, was rushed to the Lincoln hospital for treatment of head injuries. Jones and a passenger in his car, Herbert Gottsch, 46, St. Paul, were hospitalized in St. Paul.

White Christmas Likely Throughout Nebraska

Nebraska is going to have a white Christmas this year, according to the weatherman, who forecast sleet and snow throughout the state.

The forecast called for Nebraska cities from Omaha to Scottsbluff to receive up to three inches of snow by Friday. Accompanying the snowy forecast was a hazardous driving warning to travelers planning to use state highways during the Christmas week-end.

Southwest Storm Midwest-Bound

By United Press International

A major storm which left up to 17 inches of snow in northern Arizona sped across the Great Plains toward the Upper Midwest Thursday. It promised a white Christmas Eve for much of the nation's mid-section.

Heavy snow warnings were up in parts of South Dakota and Minnesota. Snow was forecast from Kansas to the Canadian border and eastward to Iowa. Heavy snow continued in parts of Utah and the southern Rockies. Sleet and freezing rain glazed highways in Minnesota and Wisconsin.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Kansas City, in a special holiday statement, said the storm threatened to bring hazardous driving conditions to most of the nation north and west of Kansas City.

South and east of the snow line it was raining from Illinois to Texas and westward across parts of New Mexico and Arizona.

In Arizona, the rain melted the snow in the central part of the state, touching off flash floods.

freezing rain and snow was expected with winds up to 30 miles an hour. Friday afternoon skies are predicted to be partly cloudy.

Elsewhere, snowfall reduced visibility to less than one-fourth of a mile Thursday night in Chadron, Scottsbluff, Sidney and Ogallala. Road surfaces in the area were covered with ice and packed snow.

Road surfaces at O'Neill, Valentine, Thedford and Mullen were covered with a thin sheet of ice and snow.

Light rain mixed with snow covered the Imperial, McCook, Holdrege, and Alma areas with slush and snow.

By early Friday morning Sidney had four inches of snow and North Platte three. Other snow depths: Valentine one inch, Burwell two, Chadron one, Imperial two.

The Nebraska Department of Roads issued the hazardous driving warning Thursday afternoon, advising motorists to take care and watch for ice and packed snow across the state.

Troops Keep Powder Dry

... UONG BI 100% BLASTED

Saigon (AP)—American and South Vietnamese forces were to silence their guns and ground their planes Friday for a tentative Christmas truce hailed in some quarters as a possible step toward peace negotiations. But the fighting men were keeping their powder dry.

All units were under orders to shoot only in self-defense during a 30-hour period starting at 6 p.m. (4 a.m. CST). This represents unofficial acceptance and a one-sided expansion of the Viet Cong's recent conditional proposal of a 12-hour cease-fire to start at 7 p.m.

Fresh Battling

In advance of the deadline there was fresh fighting in the highlands and U.S. announcement of a 50-plane raid Wednesday that "completely knocked out" North Viet Nam's previously blasted Uong Bi power plant. Three of the planes were shot down.

The move for a break in the bloodshed drew expressions of hope from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and U.S. congressional leaders and approving comment from Britain, which has been trying vainly for months to promote peace talks.

President Johnson maintained silence concerning the orders, issued by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Viet Nam, and Gen. Cao Van Vien, chief of staff of the Vietnamese armed forces.

All Chances

Johnson said recently, however, that every prospect for peace will be exhausted "before other hard steps are taken" against the foe in Viet Nam.

"Let us hope that these 30 hours can be used to secure a permanent peace," said Humphrey at his home in Waverly, Minn. He is to travel to the Far East next week. "Let us hope the men in Hanoi will use these precious hours to come to the conference table..."

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he would like to see U.S. officials keep the peace initiative and offer to extend the cease-fire until the lunar new year which the Vietnamese celebrate Jan. 21-23.

Nothing to Lose

He said, "We've got nothing to lose by making another counter-proposal."

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, ranking Republican on the Armed Services Committee, urged Americans to hope and pray that the cease-fire "is a stepping-stone for negotiations."

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said he hoped "the cessation will restore reason to the communists and that they will enter into negotiations under honorable circumstances."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, R-Mich., the House GOP leader, said he was delighted, but cautioned that the cease-fire "may or may not have a relationship to further negotiations and a peaceful solution." It is a "good test of the legitimacy and good will of the communist and Viet Cong forces."

WEATHER

LINCOLN—Friday morning snow fall up to three inches. Colder temperatures over most of the area Friday. Highs in the low 30's.

Zambians Request Russian Protection

Moscow (UPI)—Zambia asked the Soviet Union Thursday to send troops to protect the Kariba Dam on the Zambian border with Rhodesia.

Zambian sources said a meeting between Finance Minister Z. Vina and Agriculture Minister E. Mudenda with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was "very useful." They declined to disclose the Soviet answer to the request.

The two Zambian officials also spoke to Gromyko about how the Soviets could help in other ways to bring about the downfall of the white minority government in Rhodesia.

In addition to troops to guard the dam, the Zambians want both the U.S. and the Russians to aid in supplying foodstuffs and industrial supplies that are now transported by the Rhodesian railway.

A Zambian source emphasized missions were sent to Moscow and Washington only after the British refused to provide the troops.

The delegation was scheduled to meet with Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny Friday and return home Saturday.

After Joseph's death, Jesus still had to provide for His mother, a duty He fulfilled until His own death, when He turned the task over to an apostle and kinsman, John. But He also had to set His own course.

Jesus himself, as He entered manhood, spent much time alone in prayer, apart from the fractious

Also, in the practicing Jewish tradition in which He was raised, young men were supposed to marry by about 18. Not to do so was considered peculiar.

But He grew older, 24... 27... 29... and still did not marry. Although women ultimately proved to be among His most loyal, unflinching friends in crisis, He went His solitary way, hearing that primordial, prodigious call: "Before Abraham was, I am."

As Man
Yet, no matter how harsh the rejections and blindness, "He who has sent me is with me; He has not left me alone." It was up to Him, as man, to manifest in natural terms which man understood the supernatural concern they did not understand.

More than any descriptive words, however, it was His behavior that distinguished Him. He spurned pride, the will-to-power. This singular difference was dramatized in His temptations by the devil before His ministry began.

When He preached His first sermon in His hometown of Nazareth, His neighbors were infuriated.

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me," He said, "because He has anointed me to preach good news to the poor... to proclaim release to the captives—to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord."

They ran Him out of town. So began the public life of the babe of Bethlehem—the true man, the "man for others."

His voice has risen, and to cool his own anger, he tries a smile. Then he shrugs and mutters, "Aw, hell. I'm just

Carol Brings Howls

The jokebox begins to play "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," and that turns the trick. Everybody howls with laughter.

German Churches Join Mid-Europe Unity Move

By CARL HARTMAN
Bonn, Germany (AP)—German churches are joining a highly unusual initiative in Central Europe to bring together not only the peoples of communist and anticommunist areas but also those much more ancient enemies—the German and the Pole.

German Roman Catholic bishops have accepted an invitation from the bishops of Communist-ruled Poland. They will celebrate the 1,000th anniversary next spring of Poland's Christianization.

Acceptance came in a letter signed jointly by the bishops of West Germany and of Red-ruled East Germany. They don't often get together publicly.

With both the invitation and acceptance went warm words of forgiveness for the horrors of the past.

A few weeks ago the Protestant churches of West Germany approved a call for a new spirit of cooperation between Germany and Poland.

They urged review of the troubled questions of frontiers, exiles and refugees in "a true dialogue and an expression of the will to reconciliation."

This may sound like vague parsons' talk in the West. To Poles whose families were massacred by the Nazis and to Germans driven from their homes in Eastern Europe it cuts close to the bone.

The trouble goes back for centuries. Poles and Germans have educated, converted, loved, married, despised, brutalized and exterminated one another over the ages.

World War II only made things worse. First Adolf Hitler's armies overran western Poland, while the Soviets invaded the east. Then the Germans advanced almost to Moscow. Then the Soviets returned to take all of Poland and eastern Germany as well.

A new Poland was set up, including much land that had last belonged to Germany.

Other former German territory was annexed to the Soviet Union. The Soviets organized a large German Communist state.

Not Recognized

The present West German government officially recognizes none of these Soviet acts. It stands for a restored, reunited, democratic Germany within the borders it had before Hitler began his conquests. Until recently, to advocate anything else in West Germany was a sure way of getting denounced as a communist and a traitor.

It is still unpopular to say, as the Protestant churches said:

"In this situation, even the Western allies of the Federal Republic (of West Germany) expect it to make a contribution which will only be possible when the government can count on finding among the German people understanding and consent for a step in the spirit of reconciliation toward our Eastern neighbors."

This is an area where most West German politicians still fear to tread. The Protestant statement won some wary endorsement and much criticism. Powerful refugees' organizations denounced it.

The acceptance of the Catholic invitation from Poland has had a more favorable reception. It got backing from all three major parties in West Germany, even from a group in Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Party that represents an area now held by Poland.

The Protestants pointed out in their appeal that all through the 1950s, little could be done toward reconciliation because the East and West formed two great and apparently immobile power blocs.

"Now," they said, "the fronts are in movement."

Play 'Cat Called Jesus' Gets Teacher Probed

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Is the play "A Cat Called Jesus" immoral and sacrilegious?

Its author, Mrs. Geri Turner Davis, 31, a speech-drama teacher at Mission Bay High School, says it is not, and many school officials have come to her defense.

The play was produced last May by the Stagecraft Theater and won a prize in a one-act competition that was not connected with the school.

Mrs. Davis says the play merely depicts "Christian compassion in the interracial theme."

Negro In Dixie

It concerns an unjustly jailed Negro youth in the South and his friendship with the sheriff's daughter, whose cat is named Jesus.

The state credentials committee has launched an investigation as a result of about 50 complaints from parents and citizens, according to State School Supt. Max Rafferty. He added that such an investigation is routine upon receipt of complaints.

The controversy began when 54 parents and citizens protested to the San Diego Board of Education.

Mrs. Davis' principal, Joseph Byrnes, would not comment on the play, saying it had nothing to do with the school.

"What she does away from school," Byrnes said, "is not something I should either condemn or protect. The play really has nothing to do with the school. It was not produced at the school."

Excellent Teacher

Byrnes added:

"She has been an outstandingly good teacher."

The author's husband, Bruce, said both favorable and critical responses have been received from the public.

The critical letters attacked the use of a white and Negro on the same stage, in addition to naming the cat Jesus.

The president of the California State Board of Education

Thomas Braden, recently defended Mrs. Davis.

Braden said the investigation is "ridiculous and incredible."

Laughing It Out

If the only charge against Mrs. Davis is writing a play, said Braden, it will be "laughed out of the board."

Meanwhile, Mrs. Davis has been taking the controversy calmly, insisting that her critics simply missed the point of the play, her husband said.

The course of action that the state credentials committee could take would include a hearing for Mrs. Davis. It has not been scheduled.

After the hearing, the committee would make a recommendation to Braden and the state school board, which is the only agency empowered to revoke credentials.

Pontiff Makes Peace Appeal

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Paul VI called Thursday night for peace in Viet Nam, saying, "True peace is to be found in the alliance of love."

"No one ought to force his neighbor (and today we are all neighbors) to resort to armed defense," the pontiff said in his Christmas message to the world. "And no one ought to shirk just and sincere negotiations to restore order and friendship."

Thus, without mentioning Viet Nam by name, the Pope put the Roman Catholic Church, with its half billion members, behind every effort that could lead to a peaceful settlement.

At one point, appealing to both sides in the war, he pleaded:

"Check the way things are going. It is possible that you are on the wrong track. Stop and think. True wisdom is to be found in peace."

Earlier in the day, Vatican sources reported he was "extremely gratified" by the news that U.S. and South Vietnamese forces had proclaimed a Christmas cease-fire in South Viet Nam.

Only four days ago the pontiff had urged a Christmas truce—mentioned by the South Vietnamese in the order for a cease-fire—and had called on world leaders to seek a peaceful solution.

By The Associated Press

The growing war in Viet Nam has been voted by AP member newspapers and radio and TV stations as the top news story of 1965.

Calling the U.S. "guardians at the gate" and hopeful that a display of American power would hasten a negotiated settlement, President Johnson set this country's policy in Viet Nam as an increase in U.S. troop commitments.

In February, after the third major attack on Americans in Viet Nam in three months at Pleiku, Johnson ordered jet fighters to bomb a staging area in North Viet Nam.

B52s In June

By March, South Vietnamese and American planes were making regular bombing runs over North Viet Nam. In June, big B52 bombers of the Strategic Air Command flew missions for the first time.

At the same time, ground fighting also stepped up. U.S. troops in South Viet Nam increased from 25,000 in January to 165,000 in December, with prospects of doubling in 1966.

The draft call went from 3,000 a month in February to 17,000 for September. A presidential order stepped that up to 35,000. In January, 65,000 tons of military equipment reached South Viet Nam by sea. In November, 750,000 tons arrived.

Polls, Protests

In the U.S., polls showed a high percentage of public approval of LBJ's Viet Nam policy. However, there were "get out of Viet Nam" demonstrations throughout the year, largely by college students and faculty.

The rioting in Los Angeles began on the hot, smoggy evening of Wednesday, Aug. 11, in the Watts district, after a highway patrol officer arrested a young Negro on suspicion of drunken driving.

The crowd which collected became a mob, first throwing rocks, then beating white motorists, smashing stores and looting. The mob was dispersed, formed again the next evening, dispersed and formed again to throw fire bombs, attack firemen, loot and shoot guns. At the riot's peak, an estimated 7,000 rioters faced 900 policemen and 14,000 National Guardsmen.

When it was over, 34 persons had died, 898 been injured, more than 1,000 buildings were damaged, 209 beyond repair, more than 4,200 people were arrested and damage was estimated at $50 million.

The No. 3 story was LBJ's 1965 legislative record.

Congress passed 86 major pieces of Great Society legislation including $1.3 billion aid to education; the voting rights bill; an omnibus housing bill, which included a rent subsidy; medical care for the aged under Social Security; a $1.1 billion Appalachia aid bill; a liberalized immigration bill, and a bill creating a Department of Housing and Urban Development.

They stayed out most of the night in New York. Thirty million persons, 800,000 of them in New York subways, were in the dark because of a malfunctioning relay — an automatic switching device — in a Canadian power plant four miles from Niagara Falls. The power leak was too fast to be isolated and automatic devices shut down the vast network, one of the country's five power grids of interlocking utilities. A Federal Power Commission report said it could happen again.

Russia, Red China Exchange Criticism On North Viet Aid

Moscow (UPI)—The Soviet Union and Communist China Thursday accused each other of doing too little to help North Viet Nam.

The Russians charged that denunciations by Peking of American "imperialism" are "not sufficient."

"Actual help must be rendered to peoples subject to imperialist aggression," added the Communist Party journal Partinaya Zhizn (Party Life).

"To avoid doing so or not to do it, means to deviate from Marxist-Leninist teachings on assistance to ones' brothers."

"There are some common tasks of the communist movement which no Marxist-Leninist can reject. These tasks involve coordination of activities in the struggle against the common enemy—imperialism," the magazine said.

Obsolete Weapons

(In Peking, the official People's Daily accused Moscow of sending obsolete and worn out equipment to North Viet Nam and branded as "slander charges that China was demanding dollars for transporting the material to Hanoi."

(The Chinese said Soviet military aid to North Viet Nam has consisted "of obsolete equipment discarded by the Soviet armed forces or damaged weapons cleaned out from the warehouse."

(Concerning the shipment of the arms through Chinese territory to North Viet Nam, the Chinese said, "We have not charged the Soviet Union a single kopek, let alone U.S. dollars. That is the truth of the matter.")

The latest Moscow-Peking verbal fireworks came in the wake of the signing of a new Soviet-North Viet Nam military and economic aid agreement in Moscow Wednesday after two weeks of top-level talks.

Valuable Assistance

(A communist Viet Nam news agency broadcast from Hanoi monitored in Tokyo Thursday said the North Vietnamese thank the Soviet Union for "this valuable and effective assistance to the development of the economy and consolidation of national defense potential...")

At the same time, the Kremlin hammered away at what has become a common theme in the Moscow-Peking struggle. The journal accused China of forsaking "the principles of proletarian internationalism."

The Russians said China accuses Moscow of "revisionism" of Marxist-Leninist doctrine while being a revisionist nation itself.

The Russian attack was considerably more restrained than recent Peking accusations that the Russians are "cowards" and are "conspiring" with the U.S. in the Viet Nam war.

Nevertheless, Western observers said, the Russians have now begun to hit back in mounting intensity against Chinese blasts.

Draft Review May Make Former Rejects Eligible

Washington (UPI)—The Selective Service will begin a nationwide review next month that could result in making thousands of previously rejected high school graduates eligible for Viet Nam draft calls, it was disclosed Thursday.

A Selective Service spokesman said the review will focus on the draft status of high school graduates who flunked the mental test for military service and were classified 1-Y.

There are 2 million men in the 1-Y category, about half of which failed the mental exam. The rest were disqualified for physical reasons.

The spokesman said there were not accurate figures available on the number of graduates in the 1-Y category. Some estimates indicated about 100,000 would be affected by the review.

It was expected that many, if not all, who flunked the mental test can be reclassified 1-A and made available for induction. The 1-Ys rejected on physical grounds will not be affected by the review.

Almost Anybody

Last month the armed forces lowered their mental requirements for draftees. Under the new rules, virtually any high school graduate can qualify.

Before the standards were modified, thousands of high school graduates were classified 1-Y. The category includes draft registrants failing by a comparatively small margin to meet mental or physical requirements for induction.

In terms of fitness for service, the 1-Ys rank between 1-As, who are immediately acceptable, and 4-Fs, disqualified for military duty under any circumstances.

The decision to undertake a review of 1-Ys was reached Thursday at a meeting of Selective Service and Defense Department officials.

The spokesman said final details had not been worked out.

1962 Order

An executive order issued in 1962 stipulates that 1-Ys may be called up for induction only in the event of war or a national emergency declared by Congress. But there is nothing in the order to preclude 1-Ys being re-examined for upgrading to 1-A status.

The Selective Service spokesman said the review of 1-Ys will begin in January with men nearest age 26 and work down toward men aged 19, in keeping with the policy of calling the oldest eligibles first.

German Churches Join Mid-Europe Unity Move

By CARL HARTMAN
Bonn, Germany (AP)—German churches are joining a highly unusual initiative in Central Europe to bring together not only the peoples of communist and anticommunist areas but also those much more ancient enemies—the German and the Pole.

German Roman Catholic bishops have accepted an invitation from the bishops of Communist-ruled Poland. They will help celebrate the 1,000th anniversary next spring of Poland's Christianization.

Acceptance came in a letter signed jointly by the bishops of West Germany and of Red-ruled East Germany. They don't often get together publicly.

With both the invitation and acceptance went warm words of forgiveness for the horrors of the past.

A few weeks ago the Protestant churches of West Germany approved a call for a new spirit of cooperation between Germany and Poland.

They urged review of the troubled questions of frontiers, exiles and refugees in "a true dialogue and an expression of the will to reconciliation."

This may sound like vague parsons' talk in the West. To Poles whose families were massacred by the Nazis and to Germans driven from their homes in Eastern Europe it cuts close to the bone.

The trouble goes back for centuries. Poles and Germans have educated, converted, loved, married, despised, brutalized and exterminated one another over the ages.

World War II only made things worse. First Adolf Hitler's armies overran western Poland, while the Soviets invaded the east. Then the Germans advanced almost to Moscow. Then the Soviets returned to take all of Poland and eastern Germany as well.

A new Poland was set up, including much land that had last belonged to Germany.

Other former German territory was annexed to the Soviet Union. The Soviets organized a large German Communist state.

Not Recognized

The present West German government officially recognizes none of these Soviet acts. It stands for a restored, reunited, democratic Germany within the borders it had before Hitler began his conquests. Until recently, to advocate anything else in West Germany was a sure way of getting denounced as a communist and a traitor.

It is still unpopular to say, as the Protestant churches said:

"In this situation, even the Western allies of the Federal Republic (of West Germany) expect it to make a contribution which will only be possible when the government can count on finding among the German people understanding and consent for a step in the spirit of reconciliation toward our Eastern neighbors."

This is an area where most West German politicians still fear to tread. The Protestant statement won some wary endorsement and much criticism. Powerful refugees' organizations denounced it.

The acceptance of the Catholic invitation from Poland has had a more favorable reception. It got backing from all three major parties in West Germany, even from a group in Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Party that represents an area now held by Poland.

The Protestants pointed out in their appeal that all through the 1950s, little could be done toward reconciliation because the East and West formed two great and apparently immobile power blocs.

"Now," they said, "the fronts are in movement."

RATIONS FOR DUCKS

This enterprising U.S. paratrooper can look forward to a Christmas dinner of roast duck, having traded his C-rations for the fowl at a Vietnamese village Dec. 19.

YES ACTT Inspirer Won't See Results

San Francisco (AP)—On Christmas Day, a ship filled with 30 tons of soap and clothing will sail through the Golden Gate for Viet Nam.

The cargo is the result of an idea by U.S. Army Capt. Ronald Rod, killed in action Dec. 4 at the age of 31. It would have been a dream come true had he lived.

Two months before a Viet Cong bullet ended his life, Capt. Rod arrived in Duc Pho north of Saigon as military adviser and civilian administrator for the 10,000 people who lived inside the barbed wire barrier erected against the communist guerrillas.

Bothered by the living conditions, Rod wrote a letter that was printed by a weekly newspaper in New Orleans, his hometown.

Please Send Soap

"Bathing is done in the rain, from contaminated wells or stagnant pools," the letter read. "The use of soap could prevent countless boils, infections and abscesses on these unfortunate children. . . . Please send me some soap."

Louisiana citizens responded with tens of thousands of bars of soap. They collected clothing, too.

"I wish he could be here to see this," said his brother, Reginald, Wednesday as he watched the loading of the freighter Mormachawk.

Reginald, a business executive in San Francisco, took from his pocket a letter written by his brother shortly before he died. It said he couldn't wait to begin distribution.

The rapidly shifting face of the Viet Nam conflict makes it uncertain whether Duc Pho will be controlled by the Saigon government or the Viet Cong when the cargo arrives.

Therefore, the nationwide drive was turned over to a group called YES ACTT (Youth Enlists Support through American Christmas Trains and Trucks), sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans. They added toys, toothpaste, medicine and money for general distribution in South Viet Nam.

Dominican Terrorism Quiets Down

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic (AP)—Terrorism touched off by the battle of Santiago died down in this capital Thursday after two persons were shot to death during the night.

But a crisis persisted over Sunday's fight in Santo Domingo, second city of the Dominican Republic, between rebels and the army that left 12 dead.

Some labor leaders threatened a general strike unless the provisional government punishes military leaders they hold responsible for the incident of Santiago. The army blames the fighting on the rebels.

Pontiff Makes Peace Appeal

Vatican City (AP)—Pope Paul VI called Thursday night for peace in Viet Nam, saying, "True peace is to be found in the alliance of love."

"No one ought to force his neighbor (and today we are all neighbors) to resort to armed defense," the pontiff said in his Christmas message to the world. "And no one ought to shrink just and sincere negotiations to restore order and friendship."

Thus, without mentioning Viet Nam by name, the Pope put the Roman Catholic Church, with its half billion members, behind every effort that could lead to a peaceful settlement.

At one point, appealing to both sides in the war, he pleaded:

"Check the way things are going. It is possible that you are on the wrong track. Stop and think. True wisdom is to be found in peace."

Earlier in the day, Vatican sources reported he was "extremely gratified" by the news that U.S. and South Vietnamese forces had proclaimed a Christmas cease-fire in South Viet Nam.

Only four days ago the pontiff had urged a Christmas truce—mentioned by the South Vietnamese in the order for a cease-fire—and had called on world leaders to seek a peaceful solution.

people were arrested and damage was estimated at $50 million.

The No. 3 story was LBJ's 1965 legislative record.

Congress passed 86 major pieces of Great Society legislation including $1.3 billion aid to education; the voting rights bill; an omnibus housing bill, which included a rent subsidy; medical care for the aged under Social Security; a $1.1 billion Appalachia aid bill; a liberalized immigration bill, and a bill creating a Department of Housing and Urban Development.

4. The lights went out over most of the Northeastern United States and part of Ontario, Canada, during the afternoon rush hour Nov. 9.

They stayed out most of the night in New York. Thirty million persons, 800,000 of them in New York subways, were in the dark because of a malfunctioning relay — an automatic switching device — in a Canadian power plant four miles from Niagara Falls. The power leak was too fast to be isolated and automatic devices shut down the vast network, one of the country's five power grids of interlocking utilities. A Federal Power Commission report said it could happen again.

Threat Of Dynamite Forces Evacuation

... IN WEST OMAHA INDUSTRIAL AREA

Omaha (AP)—Demolition experts removed several boxes of dynamite from a two-story shack Thursday afternoon after evacuating a West Omaha industrial area near a teeming shopping center.

A demolition team from Offutt Air Force Base, firemen and police continued to scour the area after being warned it was mined with more explosives.

The two-story building where the dynamite was cached was at the rear of a tract occupied by McCann Concrete Co. Police were holding 72-year-old Andrew Hanke, whom they identified as a demolition expert once employed by McCann and who was permitted to live in the house.

Carried Shotgun

McCann workers said Hanke apparently became angry about men "infringing" on his property Thursday and when he came out of the shack carrying a shotgun, police were called.

Officers took Hanke into custody and on entering the building found five cases of dynamite.

Hanke warned them more dynamite was buried and that there was a cache of nitroglycerin wired for detonation.

Area Evacuated

Officers on the scene called for aid, the area was evacuated and the search started. McCann is on the main east-west artery through Omaha. Just northeast of the concrete firm is the Crossroads shopping center crowded with thousands of Christmas shoppers.

There were no indications that the incident was connected with four retail store bombings in the city in the last few days. Each of the bombs was small and no one was hurt. A fifth was found in a car.

Nebraska's Total Crop Production Fifth Largest, 10% Over Last Year

Nebraska's total crop production this year was the fifth largest on record and 10% greater than the 1964 production, the state-federal Division of Agricultural Statistics said Thursday.

In its annual crop summary, the division said this year's crop output was topped only by production in the peak years, 1960, and in 1958, 1962 and 1963.

The division estimated the total value of the 1965 crop output at $711 million, nine per cent above the value of the 1964 crop but 15% under the record 1962 crop valuation.

Crop yields during the year were the best ever, but the total acreage harvested was slightly below 1964 totals and was the lowest since the drought of 1934, the division noted.

age, reduced by drought and wind erosion during the spring and stem rust particularly in the extreme west, was recorded at 20 bushels per acre, five bushels less than the 1964 average and 3.2 bushels below the all-time average.

Sorghum — Production was the largest on record at 126.9 million bushels, exceeding the previous high of 105 million bushels set in 1963. The yield per acre was above average and third largest on record, and the acreage harvested for grain reached a new high, 2,329,000.

Oats — The crop totaled 28,800,000 bushels from 722,000 acres, the smallest acreage harvested since 1884. However, the yield per acre was an all-time record of 40 bushels.

Barley — Production was the smallest since 1911 at 1,620,000 bushels, with planted acreage totaling 75,000 acres, 43% below 1964 while yield per acre, 30 bushels, ranking as the second highest on record.

Rye — The production totaled 1,680,000 bushels, 28% below last year, with the 17.5 bushels per acre yield average equaling the record high for the crop. Planted acreage was lower than last year.

Soybeans — Production hit a record 17,328,000 bushels, more than five million above the previous high set last year. Acreage planted, 736,000, was the highest ever, but the yield of 24 bushels per acre fell short of the average, primarily because a large part of the crop was caught by an early frost.

Wheat — The crop totaled 56.1 million bushels, nearly 18 million below last year's production total and 20% under the average. The yield averaged 20 bushels per acre.

Nebraska News

Highest On Record

It said corn and oat yields per acre were the highest on record this year, with most yields well above average, notably on barley, rye and sorghum grain.

Yields on wheat, sugar beets, soybeans and dry edible beans were below average.

The division said production of grain crops was nine per cent above last year but six per cent below the average. Hay and forage production was 22% above last year, two per cent above the average.

The report by crop:

Corn — Corn for grain at 260 million bushels was 39 million bushels above the 1964 production. While yield per acre was a record 24 bushels, the small acreage harvested held production below the recent big crop years. Planted acreage totaled about 4.2 million acres, the smallest since 1885.

18 Million Below

Barley Down

Barley — Production was the smallest since 1911 at 1,620,000 bushels, with planted acreage totaling 75,000 acres, 43% below 1964 while yield per acre, 30 bushels, ranking as the second highest on record.

Rye — The production totaled 1,680,000 bushels, 28% below last year, with the 17.5 bushels per acre yield average equaling the record high for the crop. Planted acreage was lower than last year.

Soybeans — Production hit a record 17,328,000 bushels, more than five million above the previous high set last year. Acreage planted, 736,000, was the highest ever, but the yield of 24 bushels per acre fell short of the average, primarily because a large part of the crop was caught by an early frost.

Lack Of Motive Baffles Police In Five Bombings

Omaha (UPI)—The apparent lack of a motive and the wide area of operation continued to baffle police Thursday as they sought to track down information regarding recent bombing incidents.

Richard Andersen, inspector of detectives appealed to the public to call police if they have any information that might help solve the case.

Uniformed police and detectives were ordered to be especially alert when in the vicinity of large stores.

Andersen said authorities are eager to question two youths who were seen fleeing down an alley Saturday afternoon after an explosion at a home and auto supply store.

That explosion was the fourth of five during a nine-day span.

Catholics Allowed Holy Communion Twice Christmas

Vatican City (AP)—For the first time Roman Catholics will be able to receive holy communion twice within 24 hours this Christmas.

Liturgical experts, noting this Thursday, said double communion on Christmas was one of the changes made possible by the reform of liturgy (public worship) decreed by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Normally Roman Catholics cannot receive communion more than once in a single day.

A Catholic who wants to receive communion twice this Christmas must do so at two different masses.

The two youths were described by a truck driver as Negroes 16 to 17 years of age. One was described as being about 6 feet 4 inches tall, and thin. The other was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, according to the truck driver.

Analyses of fragments of three of the bombs that were sent to FBI laboratories in Washington, D.C., have not been received, Andersen said.

Results of the FBI checks could be important, Andersen noted. He said the examinations may reveal what kind of powder was used and might show if the pipe used in making the homemade bombs was cut from the same length of pipe.

Andersen said more than 20 persons have been questioned about the bombings but that all suspects have been cleared. Most of the bombings occurred in supermarkets.

Native Of Omaha To Head Medical Services Bureau

Washington (AP)—Dr. Garth J. Wagner, an Omaha native now residing in Alexandria, Va., has been appointed chief of the Public Health Services Bureau of Medical Services, it was announced Thursday.

Wagner is an assistant surgeon general. He succeeds Dr. Leo J. Gehrig, recently appointed deputy surgeon general. Wagner, an orthopedic surgeon, has been with the Health Service since 1941.

Dr. Eldon Smith Dies In Hospital

Omaha (UPI)—Services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday in the Crosby-Kunold Mortuary Chapel here for Dr. Eldon J. Smith, 88, former mayor of Burwell.

Dr. Smith, who practiced as a physician and surgeon for 60 years in Burwell, died in an Omaha hospital.

SEARCHERS FIND MISSING BOY'S BODY

ing in the icy water Wednesday. Jorgenson and his friend, Daniel Whitesell, 12, of Sioux City, were reported missing Tuesday after they failed to return home from checking beaver traps along the river.

Pig Crop Increase Predicted

Washington (AP)—The Agriculture Department forecast Thursday an increase of 7%

over a year earlier in the 1966 pig crop, promising consumers considerably more pork at lower prices by next fall than is available now.

The crop is expected to total 46 million head compared with this year's low spring crop of only 43,080,000 head. However, the coming spring crop would still be slightly smaller than the 1964 crop of 47,977,000 head.

Spring crop pigs provide the slaughter supply in the following fall and winter. Production dipped sharply this year under the influence of low prices last year. But the consequence reduction in pork supplies carried prices in pork and pork products to the highest levels in many years.

Fall crop pigs provide the slaughter supply during the following spring and summer. Thus Thursday's survey indicated that consumer supplies of pork will continue rather restricted well into the coming spring and summer.

Total pig production this year was reported at 81,638,000 head, down 8 per cent from last year's 88,496,000 head. The 1959-63 crops averaged 94 million head.

The department reported there were 54,283,000 hogs and pigs on the nation's farms on Dec. 1, a decrease of 7% from the year earlier number of 58,123,000 head.

The number of sows expected to be farrowed during the 1966 spring crop season in Nebraska totals 329,000, compared with 317,000 during the 1965 crop season.

Garbage Collections: All garbage collections normally on Sat. Dec. 25th will be on Fri. Dec. 24th. Also, all normal garbage collections on Sat. Jan. 1st will be on Fri. Dec. 31st. Season's Greetings.

Three Persons Killed On Nebraska Highway

From Press Reports

Three persons died on Nebraska highways in traffic accidents Thursday, raising the state's 1965 toll to 375.

Mrs. George Harmon, 66 of Point, N.M., was killed in a head-on collision on Highway 34-6 about 12 miles southwest of Holdrege.

She was riding with her 67-year-old husband. Harmon and three persons in the other car were hospitalized.

A Farwell woman, Mrs. Charley Ruzicka, was killed in a truck-car accident on icy Highway 92 about five miles west of St. Paul Thursday afternoon.

James A. Rogers, 20, of Lyman, died instantly when his car and a Union Pacific Railroad passenger-freight train were in collision at a crossing west of the South Morrill depot.

It was snowing at the time and a railroad spokesman said Rogers' car hit the front section of the lead unit on the train. The spokesman said that the train was traveling at 25 miles per hour at the time and that signal lights were operating.

Summary Of Conditions

A falling low pressure area is located over extreme western Wisconsin with a cold front southwest through eastern Iowa, central Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas.

Cold air is pushing into the north and central plains around the western edge of the Wisconsin low. Another low is moving warm moist air northward into the Wisconsin front. The result is the release of the moisture from the warm air in the form of rain and snow.

POSTCARD by Stan Kellaplen

"'Twas Christmas broached the mightiest ale;
"'Twas Christmas told the merriest tale;
"A Christmas gambol oft could cheer
"The poor man's heart through half the year."

There's a pleasant thought for today. Our hearts are cheered until next July. Then we can worry about cheering them for the second half.

No easy task to keep the Christmas spirit going. An endeavor which seems to fall on the master of the house. Why I do not know.

"I can't seem to get the Christmas spirit," she said across the breakfast table. "It doesn't seem like Christmas this year."

"Count your blessings," I said cheerily. "The loved ones by the fireside. And 30 days until the bills fall due and all that."

"I still have four presents to get," she said, "and everything's so expensive."

I gave her the charge-plate and the Diners Club card.

"Go for broke," I said. She brightened up right away. Credit is a wonderful thing. If we go down in flames, I want them to say: "He was the last of the Big Time Spenders."

it to spare. Little problem about Santa Claus. Can he come down the chimney without getting burned?

The children are not allowed near the fireplace—not standing on the bricks anyway. No playing with matches either.

I've explained: "Santa Claus is fireproof. He wears a special fireproof suit. Like the man on TV the other night."

That's OK. But it seems they are not worried about Santa Claus. He could set himself on fire. That's his lookout. Are the presents going to burn?

"The presents are in a fireproof bag."

Oh. That's a relief.

I put a wreath on the door and some holly around the house. A scatter should look like Christmas.

I hung a little mistletoe. If a lady steps under the mistletoe, you may kiss her. It's the custom. That used to be a pretty gay thing to do. And gentlemen twirled their moustaches afterwards while the ladies blushed.

I don't suppose it's as wicked in these permissive days. But it's a jolly thing and I want to keep up the tradition.

Some two thirds of the world doesn't kiss. They rub noses. So if you have an Eskimo lady under the mistletoe, rub noses with her.

I can't figure getting much charge out of it. But it's the spirit that counts.

I cannot find out who started kissing. (Or who started rubbing noses either.)

In its annual crop summary, the division said this year's crop output was topped only by production in the peak year, 1960, and in 1958, 1962 and 1963.

The division estimated the total value of the 1965 crop output at $711 million, a nine per cent above the value of the 1964 crop but 15% under the record 1962 crop valuation.

Crop yields during the year were the best ever, but the total acreage harvested was slightly below 1964 totals and was the lowest since the drought of 1934, the division noted.

Highest On Record

It said corn and oat yields per acre were the highest on record this year, with most yields well above average, notably on barley, rye and sorghum grain.

Yields on wheat, sugar beets, soybeans and dry edible beans were below average.

The division said production of grain crops was nine per cent above last year but six per cent below the average. Hay and forage production was 22% above last year, two per cent above the average.

The report by crop:

Corn—Corn for grain at 260 million bushels was 39 million bushels above the 1964 production. While yield per acre was a record 67 bushels, the small acreage harvested held production below the recent big crop years. Planted acreage totaled about 4.2 million acres, the smallest since 1885.

Wheat — The crop totaled 56.1 million bushels, nearly 18 million below last year's production total and 20% under the average. The yield average, reduced by drought and wind erosion during the spring and stem rust particularly in the extreme west, was recorded at 20 bushels per acre, five bushels less than the 1964 average and 3.2 bushels below the all-time average.

Sorghum — Production was the largest on record at 126.9 million bushels, exceeding the previous high of 105 million bushels set in 1963. The yield per acre was above average and third largest on record, and the acreage harvested for grain reached a new high, 2,329,000.

Oats — The crop totaled 28,800,000 bushels from 722,-

000 acres, the smallest acreage harvested since 1884. However, the yield per acre was an all-time record of 40 bushels.

Barley Down

Barley—Production was the smallest since 1911 at 1,620,000 bushels, with planted acreage totaling 75,000 acres, 43% below 1964, while yield per acre, 30 bushels, ranking as the second highest on record.

Rye—The production totaled 1,680,000 bushels, 28% below last year, with the 17.5 bushels per acre yield average equaling the record high for the crop. Planted acreage was lower than last year.

Soybeans — Production hit a record 17,328,000 bushels, more than five million above the previous high set last year. Acreage planted, 736,000, was the highest ever, but the yield of 24 bushels per acre fell short of the average, primarily because a large part of the crop was caught by an early frost.

Lack Of Motive Baffles Police In Five Bombings

Omaha (UPI)—The apparent lack of a motive and the wide area of operation continued to baffle police Thursday as they sought to track down information regarding recent bombing incidents.

Richard Andersen, inspector of detectives appealed to the public to call police if they have any information that might help solve the case.

Uniformed police and detectives were ordered to be especially alert when in the vicinity of large stores.

Andersen said authorities are eager to question two youths who were seen fleeing down an alley Saturday afternoon after an explosion at a home and auto supply store.

That explosion was the fourth of five during a nine-day span.

The two youths were described by a truck driver as Negroes 16 to 17 years of age. One was described as being about 6 feet 4 inches tall, and thin. The other was about 5 feet 8 inches tall, according to the truck driver.

Analyses of fragments of three of the bombs that were sent to FBI laboratories in Washington, D.C., have not been received, Andersen said.

Results of the FBI checks could be important, Andersen noted. He said the examinations may reveal what kind of powder was used and might show if the pipe used in making the homemade bombs was cut from the same length of pipe.

Andersen said more than 20 persons have been questioned about the bombings but that all suspects have been cleared. Most of the bombings occurred in supermarkets.

Catholics Allowed Holy Communion Twice Christmas

Vatican City (AP) — For the first time Roman Catholics will be able to receive holy communion twice within 24 hours this Christmas.

Liturgical experts, noting this Thursday, said double communion on Christmas was one of the changes made possible by the reform of liturgy (public worship) decreed by the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

Normally Roman Catholics cannot receive communion more than once in a single day.

A Catholic who wants to receive communion twice this Christmas must do so at two different masses.

Native Of Omaha To Head Medical Services Bureau

Washington (AP) — Dr. Garth J. Wagner, an Omaha native now residing in Alexandria, Va., has been appointed chief of the Public Health Services Bureau of Medical Services, it was announced Thursday.

Wagner is an assistant surgeon general. He succeeds Dr. Leo J. Gehrig, recently appointed deputy surgeon general. Wagner, an orthopedic surgeon, has been with the Health Service since 1941.

Dr. Eldon Smith Dies In Hospital

Omaha (UPI) — Services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday in the Crosby-Kunold Mortuary Chapel here for Dr. Eldon J. Smith, 88, former mayor of Burwell.

Dr. Smith, who practiced as a physician and surgeon for 60 years in Burwell, died in an Omaha hospital.

SEARCHERS FIND MISSING BOY'S BODY

The body of Mark Jorgenson, 14, of Sioux City, Iowa, was pulled out of the Big Sioux River Thursday by Civil Defense frogmen about 50 feet from the spot where the body of his companion was found floating in the icy water Wednesday. Jorgenson and his friend, Daniel Whitesell, 12, of Sioux City, were reported missing Tuesday after they failed to return home from checking beaver traps along the river.

Pig Crop Increase Predicted

Washington (AP)—The Agriculture Department forecast Thursday an increase of 7%

over a year earlier in the 1966 pig crop, promising consumers considerably more pork at lower prices by next fall than is available now.

The crop is expected to total 46 million head compared with this year's low spring crop of only 43,080,000 head. However, the coming spring crop would still be slightly smaller than the 1964 crop of 47,977,000 head.

Spring crop pigs provide the slaughter supply in the following fall and winter. Production dipped sharply this year under the influence of low prices last year. But the consequence reduction in pork supplies carried prices in pork and pork products to the highest levels in many years.

Fall crop pigs provide the slaughter supply during the following spring and summer. Thus Thursday's survey indicated that consumer supplies of pork will continue rather restricted well into the coming spring and summer.

Total pig production this year was reported at 81,638,000 head, down 8 per cent from last year's 88,496,000 head. The 1959-63 crops averaged 94 million head.

The department reported there were 54,283,000 hogs and pigs on the nation's farms on Dec. 1, a decrease of 7% from the year earlier number of 58,123,000 head.

The number of sows expected to be farrowed during the 1966 spring crop season in Nebraska totals 329,000, compared with 317,000 during the 1965 crop season.

Garbage Collections:
All garbage collections normally on Sat. Dec. 25th will be on Fri. Dec. 24th. Also, all normal garbage collections on Sat. Jan. 1st will be on Fri. Dec. 31st. Season's Greetings.

Three Persons Killed On Nebraska Highway

From Press Reports
Three persons died on Nebraska highways in traffic accidents Thursday, raising the state's 1965 toll to 375.

Mrs. George Harmon, 66 of Point, N.M., was killed in a head-on collision on Highway 34-6 about 12 miles southwest of Holdrege.

She was riding with her 67-year-old husband. Harmon and three persons in the other car were hospitalized.

A Farwell woman, Mrs. Charley Ruzicka, was killed in a truck-car accident on Highway 92 about five miles west of St. Paul Thursday afternoon.

James A. Rogers, 20, of Lyman, died instantly when his car and a Union Pacific Railroad passenger-freight train were in collision at a crossing west of the South Morrill depot.

It was snowing at the time and a railroad spokesman said Rogers' car hit the front section of the lead unit on the train. The spokesman said that the train was traveling at 25 miles per hour at the time and that signal lights were operating.

Facts Can Be Elusive

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

The country today probably has more experts on Viet Nam than on any other subject. One problem is that the experts do not all agree. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Democrat, of Washington says that the United States must step up its activities against North Viet Nam. The senator just completed a nine-day field tour of combat areas in South Viet Nam.

But apparently Sen. Jackson saw something different than was seen by Rep. David S. King of Utah. Another Democrat, Representative King was on a two-week tour of Viet Nam as a representative of the House government information subcommittee. According to Representative King, the press in Viet Nam isn't doing too good a job. Among other things, he takes exception to press emphasis of the war against North Viet Nam. We are not so much fighting North Viet Nam, said Representative King, as we are South Viet Nam communist guerrillas. According to the representative we could totally destroy North Viet Nam and still face a long and costly war.

We won't win in Asia, he said, until the South Viet Nam people themselves decide to straighten out their country. Apparently those in charge of things in Viet Nam have a variety of tours for visiting lawmakers from the states. You can get the anti-North tour, the anti-South Viet Cong tour, the we-are-winning-the-war tour, the we-are-losing-the-war tour, the tide-has-turned tour and a host of others.

The total truth in Viet Nam is just not within the grasp of anyone. If we knew the absolute truth, we would probably know the answer to winning the war and it is obvious that this is not the case. You can probably find just about what you want to find in Viet Nam. Certainly, the north is a supply line of equipment to the communists of the south and the small number of troops from the north are still the most crack military units under the Red flag.

With the north knocked out it is probable that organized resistance in the south would crumble. Guerrilla bands would still roam the country and constitute a threat but this would not be the kind of major conflict we face today. At the same time, it is granted by most observers that South Viet Nam's government has done a poor job of getting its house in order. It has been unable to eliminate wholesale graft and corruption and has done little to improve the lot of many of its people or instill in them much confidence in the future. Certainly, success in Asia is ultimately going to demand an effective government that can put together an economic and political system that will produce a strong and moving society.

To date, the war in Viet Nam has been considered a war of the South Vietnamese people but one wonders if this concept is not beginning to change. It has been a principle of the communists that the war would eventually escalate to the point where it was openly the U.S. against North Viet Nam. At that time, according to the Red theory, South Viet Nam would realize what was happening and would abandon the U.S. There are only two things wrong with such a theory. For one, it wouldn't necessarily work that way with the South Vietnamese. Secondly, the U.S. is already too far committed to abandon its effort regardless of how it ultimately develops.

At this point, it is highly doubtful that the U.S. would get out of Asia even if South Viet Nam wanted it to. We have erected a formidable beachhead in Asia and it can now serve as a bulwark against Red China. We may not have gone into Viet Nam with that idea in mind but such seems to be the course of current events.

For South Viet Nam, the situation can only be a discouraging one. It can look at South Korea which went through a similar experience but which is emerging today as an outstanding example of Western style success. While facing an inflation threat, South Korea has greatly strengthened its agriculture, advanced its industrialization and improved its export situation.

Or, North Viet Nam might look at a country such as Mexico. Enjoying freedom from imminent military threat, Mexico is devoting only 10.3 percent of its budget to military affairs. Education takes the lion's share at 25.9 percent, communications and transportation take 16.2 percent and land conservation and irrigation stand at 10.65 percent. But South Viet Nam must drain its resources for its war effort. These, apparently, are things the South Viet Nam members of the Viet Cong give little thought to.

The communists are draining Viet Nam, both north and south, of its economic capacity to pursue an improved way of life. At the same time, they bring untold suffering and hardship to their land. We not only haven't found the answer to the war in Viet Nam but much of mankind hasn't discovered yet that war is no answer to anything. When the latter finally sinks in we will have accomplished something of overwhelming credit to us.

Funds For War None For Peace

WASHINGTON — The public has no realization of how big the build-up is in Viet Nam. Not only has Gen. William Westmoreland asked for a total of 400,000 troops — as many as we used in Korea, and without a declaration of war — but huge permanent installations are being built in South Viet Nam aimed at an occupation of 15 or 20 years.

This is because there is no responsible general in the Pentagon who will predict the war will be over within five years, and some of the position papers estimate that jungle fighting will continue for 20 to 30 years.

How far ahead the military is planning is indicated by the fact that the United States is now building a giant naval base at Sattahip, South of Bangkok in the gulf of Thailand, able to accommodate the entire Seventh Fleet. The installation is equivalent to the giant British naval base at Singapore.

The naval base in Thailand is to be used in case we are completely pushed out of Viet Nam. In Viet Nam, the Navy is also building a giant, permanent base in Camranh bay, which also will accommodate the entire Seventh Fleet. The docks, repair facilities and oil tanks are built for a 20 to 30 years occupation.

All over South Viet Nam the Army is building huge jet runways which would make the chamber of commerce in the average American city envious. They are 10,000-foot runways, and built for keeps.

It was a fine Christmas present for the city and we are very grateful to the Norden Laboratories. and pharmaceuticals in the veterinary field and is assured of it for an indefinite number of years.

This is, indeed, a tribute to Lincoln and inevitably a harbinger of more things to come. The best recommendation a city can have is the confidence of a concern that has lived and prospered in the city and cannot imagine a better location.

Norden's decision to enlarge here is strong testimony in behalf of Nebraska and Lincoln as a fine place for industry. It will affect decisions to come in other fields. A few more like that one and Lincoln is more apt to have the problem of providing building sites than of wooing industry.

It was a fine Christmas present for the city and we are very grateful to the Norden Laboratories.

What is needed is a cheaper way of reclaiming the needed metals from the old cars.

Perhaps an answer is on the way. The Ford Motor Company has entered into a contract with a scrap steel concern for the recovery of metal from 250,000 junked automobiles. The process is one of beating old cars into bits. Then by using powerful magnets separating the re-useable steel from the mess.

Let us hope this new process works out. It could at once conserve the nation's supply of iron ore and get rid of the unsightly auto grave yards, and perhaps even that part of the federal beautification program.

Hundreds more will see Christmas Day but it will be the last day of their life. All these people will be victims of auto accidents. Coming home late one evening this week we passed by the scene of an accident.

The 1960 model car had hit a telephone pole along a normally quiet residential street. The car appeared to be damaged beyond repair. Some eight to 10 feet in front of the car lay the still form of one of its occupants — thrown through the windshield and to the ground.

The youth and a companion were taken by ambulance to a local hospital. The scene was a sobering one. It is too bad, in a way, that everyone cannot witness something like this before a major holiday. It isn't a pleasant thing to see but it makes you stop and think.

It makes you contemplate the fact that life can be snatched from you in seconds if you are careless enough to throw it away in an auto accident. It makes you want to drive a little slower and a little more carefully so that you are not among those listed in the Christmas toll of auto deaths.

Such are not happy thoughts at Christmas time but a moment of reflection on them may mean long continued happiness in place of sudden sorrow. Very few are the accidents that could not have been prevented by different human conduct.

"I Don't See Myself As A Latter-Day F.D.R. Rather, He's More An Early Day Me...!"

U.S. Preparing For Long Future

WASHINGTON — The public has no realization of how big the build-up is in Viet Nam. Not only has Gen. William Westmoreland asked for a total of 400,000 troops — as many as we used in Korea, and without a declaration of war — but huge permanent installations are being built in South Viet Nam aimed at an occupation of 15 or 20 years.

The naval base in Thailand is to be used in case we are completely pushed out of Viet Nam. In Viet Nam, the Navy is also building a giant, permanent base in Camranh bay, which also will accommodate the entire Seventh Fleet. The docks, repair facilities and oil tanks are built for a 20 to 30 years occupation.

All over South Viet Nam the Army is building huge jet runways which would make the chamber of commerce in the average American city envious. They are 10,000-foot runways, and built for keeps.

Hospitals, barracks and warehouses are being built all over the country, again on a permanent basis. If and when the war is over, South Viet Nam will have enough housing to handle its population indefinitely; enough hospitals to supply one room to almost every ill citizen.

New port facilities are being built in Saigon, together with ammunition dumps and oil tanks.

The work is being done by the Army Engineers, which in some parts of South Viet Nam are more numerous than combat troops; also by two Navy Seabee battalions.

The effect on the South Viet Nam economy is catastrophic. The United States has been experiencing inflation here at home. But in this tiny primitive country, largely agricultural, the dumping of millions of American dollars almost overnight has brought prosperity to the cities but poverty to the rural areas. Unfortunately it's the Vietnamese peasants which the United States needs to win over. They have been the chief supporters of the Viet Cong, and the more inflated the economy, the more they support the VC. What they buy in the cities has risen sky-high, while that which they sell to the cities remains stationary in price.

Thus, the defense of South Viet Nam tends to be self-defeating. The more money we pour in, the more the backbone of the population turns against us. Even in the cities, resentment now is against Americans, because American GIs crowd the bars and restaurants, monopolize traffic, are able to team up with the prettiest women.

Writer Finds Meanest Man Of The Christmas Season

WASHINGTON — What would Christmas Eve be without a "meanest man" story? It would be a terrible letdown to reporters and readers alike, that's what. During the final days before Santa's visit, the suspense mounts. Will we be stuck with only the usual theft of the church poor box or will we have something really imaginative?

Today, I am happy to report the latter. It is the most perfect meanest-man story I have come across in some time. (To qualify for the award, the culprit must do something so mean that it's almost beyond the comprehension of nice people; but his plot must fail, despite its diabolical cleverness. That gives it the Christmas touch.)

In the Washington area we have a man who dropped little bags of Christmas candy around a school yard the other day. Each bag contained red and green peppermints, yellow and green gumdrops and several jaw-breaker-size balls of "Mole-Not's," a common rat poison. This delightful citizen said he did it because he is annoyed (get ready) at a "No Right Turn" sign posted near the school.

It seems that he drives that way every day and he prefers to turn right at that particular corner. In anonymous telephoned threats to

By MONA B. PARKER

Mrs. Lester Eastwood reveals the discouraging bit of information in the Pawnee Republican that the average American will gain from two to three pounds in the time between Thanksgiving and the end of the Christmas holiday. This should amaze no one, she affirms, but should be some small solace to those who gain weight easily when they step on the scales on January 1.

She's more or less in favor of abandoning any worry on the subject for the time being, and wrapping up the matter in a good firm New Year's resolution. It just won't do to be fussy now about all the rich party desserts, on the premise that hard-working hostesses might be offended at the refusal or light partaking of the offered goods.

Gresham youngsters are hoping the weatherman co-operates and sends a nice snow, come Christmas Day, reports Gladys Lindstrom in the Gazette. It rather helps a dreary landscape to put on a cheerful look, too, she adds, "like a lady puttin' on a new face."

The Hebron Chamber of Commerce ran into some rather monumental snafus when it undertook to help ol' Santa in the dispensing of good cheer, treats, and a few left-over 'Ho! Ho! Ho's' to the youngsters of that town. However, stout-hearted volunteers, headed up by Tiny Johnson of the Journal-Register, rallied around and made do with the fixin's at hand and the promise of later fulfillment.

There were 300 children, for instance, and a goodly assortment of mothers waiting to see the kindly old fellow, and all 300 little ones wanted their pictures taken sitting on Santa's knee. Film that had been ready and waiting for two weeks ahead of time was discovered to be too small for the camera and folders. All available film in Hebron was gathered up and with the help of the Thayer and Jefferson County sheriff's offices, another 15 packages were secured from Fairbury. Two-thirds of the waiting small fry thus were "shot" and the promise extended that the others would have their chance during the coming week.

Then the Crisis of the Candy arose. Five hundred sacks were purchased, but only 250 sacks delivered. A hurried trip to the store provided candy bars for the other 50 hungry little mouths.

Marlin Waechter painted an altogether too realistic word picture in the Stanton Register of what every young father goes through, wading through tissue paper, ribbons and a set of instructions on a do-it-yourself assembling job. And maybe the finished product doesn't look too bad, "considering it's the first triangular-shaped doll bed we've ever seen." Then there's the little matter of finding use for some left-over pieces, and "29 each, screws, combination wood and metal, quarter-inch, zinc-coated brass."

He adds a post-script to his tired but resounding "Merry Christmas!"

"(P.S.—the games guaranteed to keep the kids 'entertained for hours' don't usually work, either. They'll be yipping for 'something to do' before you gulp that second cup of breakfast coffee.")

The Hooper Sentinel offers a timely and useful household hint: "A half cup of blackstrap molasses in the water you put in your Christmas tree stand will prevent needles from falling off the tree."

At a time when one honors the birth of the Prince of Peace, a story by George D. Carrington in the Nemaha County Herald, Auburn, touches close to the heart. It is a story of war, but a story of the eternal hope for peace. It is called "The Soldier and the Daisy."

The time was one hundred and two years ago and the siege of Vicksburg was under way. One veteran soldier, age 20, fought on the side of the Union army. In moments of lull, he studied shorthand, kept a daily diary. His son, over a century later, perusing the little volume, found the thin, delicate petals of a daisy pressed between the leaves.

"Could it be that my veteran, hard-fighting, military father in a quiet moment, longing for the war to cease, plucked a daisy at the edge of the sheltering trench and pressed it in his shorthand book for the ages, as a symbol of pleasant, beautiful, peaceful earth? ... No doubt somewhere across that shell-swept battlefield some southern veteran boy was longing for some beautiful bird of the south that would 'build its nest in the cannon's mouth' as he plucked a daisy from the side of his trench and put it in his notebook."

Liquor By The Drink

Lincoln, Neb.

Now since the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce has publicly announced a call to vote on liquor-by-the-drink it is high time that people of high ideals speak out on the subject.

First let it be said, "there is a plague on your house." While the chamber should be concerned with the commerce of the community it is unnecessary to lower your standard by encouraging a business that in multiple ways is a real detriment to our fair city. There is money involved, but the amount in no way pays the entire cost of the liquor traffic. One to four dollars are now expended for every single dollar yielded in tax returns. Consult the Earl E. Jeffrey report, 1961, the American Business Men's Research Foundation, Chicago, Ill.

A negative vote can be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. However there is a growing sentiment that a vote be taken to determine whether or not Lincoln have liquor in any form.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "Alcohol has many defenses, but no defense." William Jennings Bryan said, "The saloon is a nuisance. The evil can no more be confined to the building in which it exists than the odor of a slaughter house to the block in which it is located."

Again in 1842 at Springfield, Ill., Lincoln said, "Whether or not the world would be vastly benefitted by a total and final banishment from it of all intoxicating drinks seems to me not now an open question. Three fourths of mankind confirm the affirmative with their tongues, and I believe the rest acknowledge it in their hearts."

Let every Lincoln citizen who favors the above proposition of voting liquor entirely out of our community come forth with public and private expressions.

Does Lincoln want this sort of a Chamber of Commerce?

C. S. ALVORD

Evils Of Drink

Lincoln, Neb.

We read that the Chamber of Commerce is asking if the people of Lincoln want liquor by the drink. It seems strange that this honorable body even suggests the question. We know that there is a mint of money to be realized from the sale of liquor; but there are other, more valuable considerations involved in this question.

Do the gentlemen of the Chamber of Commerce know that often mother cannot pay her grocery bill because Dad has used too much of his week's wages patronizing the liquor store. It happens, as the grocers can testify.

Granted that the members of the Chamber of Commerce can drive their own cars and stay on their own side of the road, will they admit that the oncoming car may wave about and involve them all in a serious accident? Statistics show that nearly 75% of all auto accidents are due to drunken driving.

Have the gentlemen any teen-agers in their own homes? Have they considered the fact that a few drinks with the gang often leads to destruction of all moral restraints? Everything from pilfering hub caps to robbing a bank may follow social drinking. Which do people love more, their money or their sons?

Has the Chamber of Commerce checked with the mental hospitals to learn how many of the patients have gone off balance through drinking alcohol? There are many. Shall we build more hospitals? Or shall we restrain the sale of liquor?

A better question for voting might be: Do the people of Lincoln want the sale of liquor prohibited at all places, in any manner or form? There might be a big protest from the moneyed interests; but on the other hand, the town might give a substantial and conclusive vote for Prohibition. We hope!

Tax Take

Lincoln, Neb.

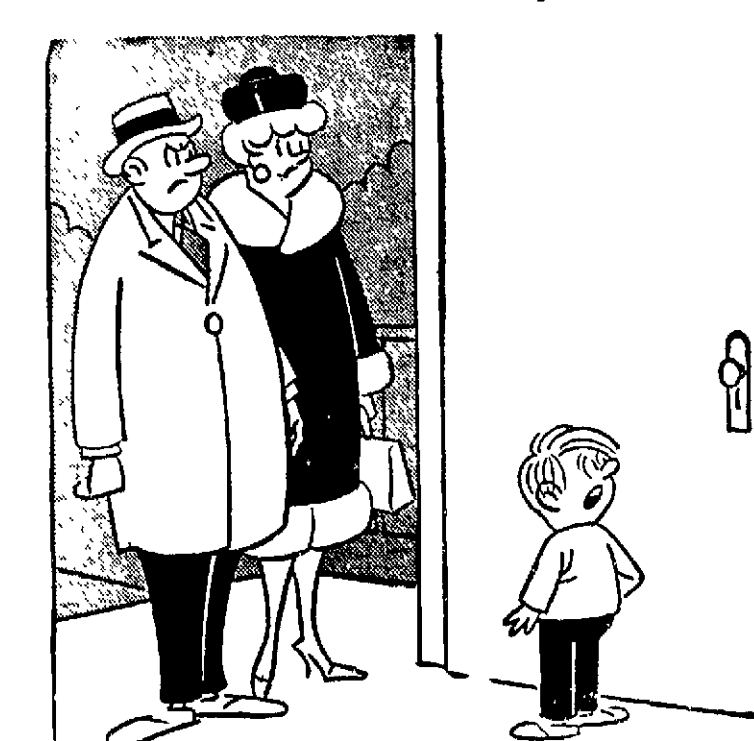

According to the Lincoln press, real estate valuations on urban (city) areas in Nebraska were hiked to a total of $178.2 million. Lincoln's participation (share) in this hike was $141.9 million and this sum subtracted from the $178.2 million leaves only $36.3 million that was raised from the other towns.

Percentage-wise this indicates that Lincoln real estate owners got nearly 80 percent of the total hikes that were dished out by the state board of equalization. Obviously, we may now enjoy the unique and costly distinction of being the top taxpayers in this particular category, both percentage-wise and valuation-wise.

A merry Xmas to all of ye faithful and may Santa leave you a large cheque for these upcoming taxes.

The country today probably has more experts on Viet Nam than on any other subject. One problem is that the experts do not all agree. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, a Democrat, of Washington says that the United States must step up its activities against North Viet Nam. The senator just completed a nine-day field tour of combat areas in South Viet Nam.

But apparently Sen. Jackson saw something different than was seen by Rep. David S. King of Utah, another Democrat. Representative King was on a two-week tour of Viet Nam as a representative of the House government information subcommittee. According to Representative King, the press in Viet Nam isn't doing too good a job. Among other things, he takes exception to press emphasis of the war against North Viet Nam. We are not so much fighting North Viet Nam, said Representative King, as we are South Viet Nam communist guerrillas. According to the representative we could totally destroy North Viet Nam and still face a long and costly war.

We won't win in Asia, he said, until the South Viet Nam people themselves decide to straighten out their country. Apparently those in charge of things in Viet Nam have a variety of tours for visiting lawmakers from the states. You can get the anti-North tour, the anti-South Viet Cong tour, the we-are-winning-the-war tour, the we-are-losing-the-war tour, the tide-has-turned tour and a host of others.

The total truth in Viet Nam is just not within the grasp of anyone. If we knew the absolute truth, we would probably know the answer to winning the war and it is obvious that this is not the case. You can probably find just about what you want to find in Viet Nam. Certainly, the north is a supply line of equipment to the communists of the south and the small number of troops from the north are still the most crack military units under the Red flag.

With the north knocked out it is probable that organized resistance in the south would crumble. Guerrilla bands would still roam the country and constitute a threat but this would not be the kind of major conflict we face today. At the same time, it is granted by most observers that South Viet Nam's government has done a poor job of getting its house in order. It has been unable to eliminate wholesale graft and corruption and has done little to improve the lot of many of its people or instill in them much confidence in the future. Certainly, success in Asia is ultimately going to demand an effective government that can put together an economic and political system that will produce a strong and moving society.

To date, the war in Viet Nam has been considered a war of the South Vietnamese people but one wonders if this concept is not beginning to change. It has been a principle of the communists that the war would eventually escalate to the point where it was openly the U.S. against North Viet Nam. At that time, according to the Red theory, South Viet Nam would realize what was happening and would abandon the U.S. There are only two things wrong with such a theory. For one, it wouldn't necessarily work that way with the South Vietnamese. Secondly, the U.S. is already too far committed to abandon its effort regardless of how it ultimately develops.

At this point, it is highly doubtful that the U.S. would get out of Asia even if South Viet Nam wanted it to. We have erected a formidable beachhead in Asia and it can now serve as a bulwark against Red China. We may not have gone into Viet Nam with that idea in mind but such seems to be the course of current events.

For South Viet Nam, the situation can only be a discouraging one. It can look at South Korea which went through a similar experience but which is emerging today as an outstanding example of Western style success. While facing an inflation threat, South Korea has greatly strengthened its agriculture, advanced its industrialization and improved its export situation.

Or, North Viet Nam might look at a country such as Mexico. Enjoying freedom from imminent military threat, Mexico is devoting only 10.3 percent of its budget to military affairs. Education takes the lion's share at 25.9 percent, communications and transportation take 16.2 percent and land conservation and irrigation stand at 10.65 percent. But South Viet Nam must drain its resources for its war effort. These, apparently, are things the South Viet Nam members of the Viet Cong give little thought to.

The communists are draining Viet Nam, both north and south, of its economic capacity to pursue an improved way of life. At the same time, they bring untold suffering and hardship to their land. We not only haven't found the answer to the war in Viet Nam but much of mankind hasn't discovered yet that war is no answer to anything. When the latter finally sinks in we will have accomplished something of overwhelming credit to us.

Funds For War None For Peace

A Really Big Boost

Lincoln is more than usually pleased to learn that the Norden Laboratories are going to invest $2.25 million in expanding their biological and pharmaceutical facilities here.

Norden originally picked Lincoln as its laboratory site because its founders were Lincoln residents. A few years ago it became a division of Smith, Kline and French, a large diversified business complex with headquarters at Philadelphia. This would lead one to believe that expansion might be diverted elsewhere. But the reverse happened. What happened was simply this, the consolidation brought attention to Lincoln as an ideal center for expansion and so a new plant that might have gone somewhere else came here.

Now Lincoln is assured of a most prominent place for the production of biologicals and pharmaceuticals in the veterinary field and is assured of it for an indefinite number of years.

This is, indeed, a tribute to Lincoln and inevitably a harbinger of more things to come. The best recommendation a city can have is the confidence of a concern that has lived and prospered in the city and cannot imagine a better location.

Norden's decision to enlarge here is strong testimony in behalf of Nebraska and Lincoln as a fine place for industry. It will affect decisions to come in other fields. A few more like that one and Lincoln is more apt to have the problem of providing building sites than of wooing industry.

It was a fine Christmas present for the city and we are very grateful to the Norden Laboratories.

A Needed Event

It is too bad that automobiles cannot vanish after their usefulness is over. It is too bad they do not disappear like last year's leaves.

But the manufacturers make several million new ones every year and at the other end of the line as many old ones hit the junk heap. And once they get there they last and last and last. They are almost impervious to decay. And thereby hangs our problem.

The federal government under the general heading of beautification has declared war on the increasing number of auto junk yards which are beginning to surround our towns. We don't know how much will be spent trying to hide this ever-increasing pile of old metal from view. For old cars are like the dead mackerel on the beach. They shine and stink and shine and stink.

The reason for all this is economic. It is cheaper to get raw ore from the mines and convert it into steel than it is to reclaim the same metal after it has been fabricated into an automobile. So we rob the mines and let the residue increase.

What is needed is a cheaper way of reclaiming the needed metals from the old cars.

Perhaps an answer is on the way. The Ford Motor Company has entered into a contract with a scrap steel concern for the recovery of metal from 250,000 junked automobiles. The process is one of beating old cars into bits. Then by using powerful magnets separating the re-useable steel from the mess.

Let us hope this new process works out. It could at once conserve the nation's supply of iron ore and get rid of the unsightly auto grave yards, and perhaps even that part of the federal beautification program.

No Christmas For Some

This is not, as the headline might indicate, a sad account of some impoverished people who have so little that Christmas will be just another day in their lives. Rather, it is a sad account of people who will not even be alive on Christmas Day. There are hundreds of them, robust and healthy at this moment, who will be still and lifeless on Christmas.

Hundreds more will see Christmas Day but it will be the last day of their life. All these people will be victims of auto accidents. Coming home late one evening this week we passed by the scene of an accident.

The 1960 model car had hit a telephone pole along a normally quiet residential street. The car appeared to be damaged beyond repair. Some eight to 10 feet in front of the car lay the still form of one of its occupants — thrown through the windshield and to the ground.

The youth and a companion were taken by ambulance to a local hospital. The scene was a sobering one. It is too bad, in a way, that everyone cannot witness something like this before a major holiday. It isn't a pleasant thing to see but it makes you stop and think.

It makes you contemplate the fact that life can be snatched from you in seconds if you are careless enough to throw it away in an auto accident. It makes you want to drive a little slower and a little more carefully so that you are not among those listed in the Christmas toll of auto deaths.

Such are not happy thoughts at Christmas time but a moment of reflection on them may mean long continued happiness in place of sudden sorrow. Very, very few are the accidents that could not have been prevented by different human conduct.

U.S. Preparing For Long Future

WASHINGTON — The public has no realization of how big the build-up is in Viet Nam. Not only has Gen. William Westmoreland asked for a total of 400,000 troops — as many as we used in Korea, and without a declaration of war—but huge permanent installations are being built in South Viet Nam aimed at an occupation of 15 or 20 years.

This is because there is no responsible general in the Pentagon who will predict the war will be over within five years, and some of the position papers estimate that jungle fighting will continue for 20 to 30 years.

How far ahead the military is planning is indicated by the fact that the United States is now building a giant naval base at Sattahip, South of Bangkok in the gulf of Thailand, able to accommodate the entire Seventh Fleet. The installation is equivalent to the giant British naval base at Singapore.

The naval base in Thailand is to be used in case we are completely pushed out of Viet Nam.

In Viet Nam, the Navy is also building a giant, permanent base in Cam Ranh bay, which also will accommodate the entire Seventh Fleet. The docks, repair facilities and oil tanks are built for a 20 to 30 years occupation.

All over South Viet Nam the Army is building huge jet runways which would make the chamber of commerce in the average American city envious. They are 10,000-foot runways, and built for keeps.

Writer Finds Meanest Man Of The Christmas Season

WASHINGTON — What would Christmas Eve be without a "meanest man" story? It would be a terrible letdown to reporters and readers alike, that's what. During the final days before Santa's visit, the suspense mounts. Will we be stuck with only the usual theft of the church poor box or will we have something really imaginative?

Today, I am happy to report the latter. It is the most perfect meanest-man story I have come across in some time. (To qualify for the award, the culprit must do something so mean that it's almost beyond the comprehension of nice people; but his plot must fail, despite its diabolical cleverness. That gives it the Christmas touch.)

In the Washington area we have a man who dropped little bags of Christmas candy around a school yard the other day. Each bag contained red and green peppermints, yellow and green gumdrops and several jaw-breaker-size balls of "Mole-Nots," a common rat poison. This delightful citizen said he did it because he is annoyed (get ready) at a "No Right Turn" sign posted near the school.

It seems that he drives that way every day and he prefers to turn right at that particular corner. In anonymous telephoned threats to warehouses are being built all over the country, again on a permanent basis. If and when the war is over, South Viet Nam will have enough housing to handle its population indefinitely; enough hospitals to supply one room to almost every ill citizen.

New port facilities are being built in Saigon, together with ammunition dumps and oil tanks.

The work is being done by the Army Engineers, which in some parts of South Viet Nam are more numerous than combat troops; also by two Navy Seabee battalions.

The effect on the South Viet Nam economy is catastrophic. The United States has been experiencing inflation here at home. But in this tiny primitive country, largely agricultural, the dumping of millions of American dollars almost overnight has brought prosperity to the cities but poverty to the rural areas. Unfortunately it's the Vietnamese peasants which the United States needs to win over. They have been the chief supporters of the Viet Cong, and the more inflated the economy, the more they support the VC. What they buy in the cities has risen sky-high, while that which they sell to the cities remains stationary in price.

Thus, the defense of South Viet Nam tends to be self-defeating. The more money we pour in, the more the backbone of the population turns against us. Even in the cities, resentment now is against Americans, because American GIs crowd the bars and restaurants, monopolize traffic, are able to team up with the prettiest women.

Lincoln, Neb. Now since the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce has publicly announced a call to vote on liquor-by-the-drink it is high time that people of high ideals speak out on the subject.

First let it be said, "there is a plague on your house." While the chamber should be concerned with the commerce of the community it is unnecessary to lower your standard by encouraging a business that in multiple ways is a real detriment to our fair city. There is money involved, but the amount in no way pays the entire cost of the liquor traffic. One to four dollars are now expended for every single dollar yielded in tax returns. Consult the Earl E. Jeffrey report, 1961, the American Business Men's Research Foundation, Chicago, Ill.

A negative vote can be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. However there is a growing sentiment that a vote be taken to determine whether or not Lincoln have liquor in any form.

Abraham Lincoln once said, "Alcohol has many defenses, but no defense." William Jennings Bryan said, "The saloon is a nuisance. The evil can no more be confined to the building in which it exists than the odor of a slaughter house to the block in which it is located."

Again in 1842 at Springfield, Ill., Lincoln said, "Whether or not the world would be vastly benefited by a total and final banishment from it of all intoxicating drinks seems to me not now an open question. Three fourths of mankind confirm the affirmative with their tongues, and I believe the rest acknowledge it in their hearts."

Let every Lincoln citizen who favors the above proposition of voting liquor entirely out of our community come forth with public and private expressions.

Mrs. Lester Eastwood reveals the discouraging bit of information in the Pawnee Republican that the average American will gain from two to three pounds in the time between Thanksgiving and the end of the Christmas holiday. This should amaze no one, she affirms, but should be some small solace to those who gain weight easily when they step on the scales on January 1.

She's more or less in favor of abandoning any worry on the subject for the time being, and wrapping up the matter in a good firm New Year's resolution. It just won't do to be fussy now about all the rich party desserts, on the premise that hard-working hostesses might be offended at the refusal or light partaking of the offered goodie.

Gresham youngsters are hoping the weatherman co-operates and sends a nice snow, come Christmas Day, reports Gladys Lindstrom in the Gazette. It rather helps a dreary landscape to put on a cheerful look, too, she adds, "like a lady puttin' on a new face."

The Hebron Chamber of Commerce ran into some rather monumental snafus when it undertook to help Santa in the dispensing of good cheer, treats, and a few left-over "Ho! Ho! Ho's" to the youngsters of that town. However, stout-hearted volunteers, headed up by Tiny Johnson of the Journal-Register, rallied around and made do with the fixin's at hand and the promise of later fulfillment.

There were 300 children, for instance, and a goodly assortment of mothers waiting to see the kindly old fellow, and all 300 little ones wanted their pictures taken sitting on Santa's knee. Film that had been ready and waiting for two weeks ahead of time was discovered to be too small for the camera and folders. All available film in Hebron was gathered up and with the help of the Thayer and Jefferson County sheriff's offices, another 15 packages were secured from Fairbury. Two-thirds of the waiting small fry thus were "shot" and the promise extended that the others would have their chance during the coming week.

Then the Crisis of the Candy arose. Five hundred sacks were purchased, but only 250 sacks delivered. A hurried trip to the store provided candy bars for the other 50 hungry little mouths.

Marlin Waechter painted an altogether too realistic word picture in the Stanton Register of what every young father goes through, wading through tissue paper, ribbons and a set of instructions on a do-it-yourself assembling job. And maybe the finished product doesn't look too bad, "considering it's the first triangular-shaped doll bed we've ever seen." Then there's the little matter of finding use for some left-over pieces, and "29 each, screws, combination wood and metal, quarter-inch, zinc-coated brass."

He adds a post-script to his tired but resounding "Merry Christmas!"

("P.S.—the games guaranteed to keep the kids 'entertained for hours' don't usually work, either. They'll be yipping for 'something to do'

before you gulp that second cup of breakfast coffee.")

The Hooper Sentinel offers a timely and useful household hint: "A half cup of blackstrap molasses in the water you put in your Christmas tree stand will prevent needles from falling off the tree."

At a time when one honors the birth of the Prince of Peace, a story by George D. Carrington in the Nemaha County Herald, Auburn, touches close to the heart. It is a story of war, but a story of the eternal hope for peace. It is called "The Soldier and the Daisy."

The time was one hundred and two years ago and the siege of Vicksburg was under way. One veteran soldier, age 20, fought on the side of the Union army. In moments of lull, he studied shorthand, kept a daily diary. His son, over a century later, perusing the little volume, found the thin, delicate petals of a daisy pressed between the leaves.

"Could it be that my veteran, hard-fighting, military father in a quiet moment, longing for the war to cease, plucked a daisy at the edge of the sheltering trench and pressed it in his shorthand book for the ages, as a symbol of pleasant, beautiful, peaceful earth? ... No doubt somewhere across that shell-swept battlefield some southern veteran boy was longing for some beautiful bird of the south that would 'build its nest in the cannon's mouth' as he plucked a daisy from the side of his trench and put it in his notebook."

Liquor By The Drink

Does Lincoln want this sort of a Chamber of Commerce?

C. S. ALVORD

Evils Of Drink

Lincoln, Neb. We read that the Chamber of Commerce is asking if the people of Lincoln want liquor by the drink. It seems strange that this honorable body even suggests the question. We know that there is a mint of money to be realized from the sale of liquor; but there are other, more valuable considerations involved in this question.

Do the gentlemen of the Chamber of Commerce know that often mother cannot pay her grocery bill because Dad has used too much of his week's wages patronizing the liquor store. It happens, as the grocers can testify.

Granted that the members of the Chamber of Commerce can drive their own cars and stay on their own side of the road, will they admit that the oncoming car may wave about and involve them all in a serious accident? Statistics show that nearly 75% of all auto accidents are due to drunken driving.

Have the gentlemen any teen-agers in their own homes? Have they considered the fact that a few drinks with the gang often leads to destruction of all moral restraints? Everything from pilfering hub caps to robbing a bank may follow social drinking. Which do people love more, their money or their sons?

Has the Chamber of Commerce checked with the mental hospitals to learn how many of the patients have gone off balance through drinking alcohol? There are many. Shall we build more hospitals? Or shall we restrain the sale of liquor?

A better question for voting might be: Do the people of Lincoln want the sale of liquor prohibited at all places, in any manner or form? There might be a big protest from the moneyed interests; but on the other hand, the town might give a substantial and conclusive vote for Prohibition. We hope!

Tax Take

Lincoln, Neb.

According to the Lincoln press, real estate valuations on urban (city) areas in Nebraska were hiked to a total of $178.2 million. Lincoln's participation (share) in this hike was $141.9 million and this sum subtracted from the $178.2 million leaves only $36.3 million that was raised from the other towns.

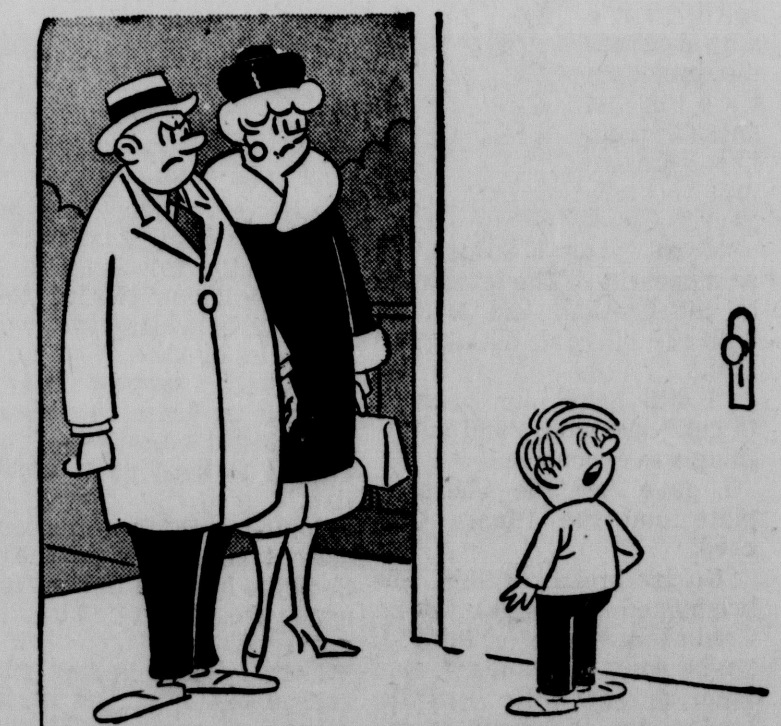

Percentage-wise this indicates that Lincoln real estate owners got nearly 80 percent of the total hikes that were dished out by the state board of equalization. Obviously, we may now enjoy the unique and costly distinction of being the top taxpayers in this particular category, both percentage-wise and valuation-wise.

A merry Xmas to all of ye faithful and may Santa leave you a large cheque for these upcoming taxes.

Union Dissent Splits Automation Panel

Washington (AP)—A special commission is reported preparing to tell Congress that automation is not wiping out many jobs — and this conclusion apparently has infuriated some union leaders.

So sharp is the dissent of the three labor members of the 14-man National Commission on Technology, automation and Economic Progress that the commission was reportedly Thursday to be seriously considering rewriting its findings before presentation to Congress.

Boy's Good Favor Turns Right Again

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—David Ward, 13, had two new bicycles and a renewed faith in his Christmas spirit Thursday after a good-deed-turned-sour turned right again.

David took part of his small earnings as a drug-store delivery boy and bought a blind 71-year-old woman her first Christmas tree and a gift of some bath towels he had picked out himself.

But while David was visiting Mrs. Brady Neals with the gifts Wednesday, someone saved the lock off the bicycle with which he earned his living and stole it.

Thursday the telephone at the drugstore jingled constantly with calls from sympathizers who had heard of David's plight.

A man called at the store early Thursday and left a bicycle for David. Another man called at David's home with a bicycle. Others sent money.

David, a shy youngster, seemed bewildered by it all. "He doesn't know what to think," said a store employee. "He just can't imagine anyone being that interested in him. He just wanted to help somebody."

tion and Economic Progress that the commission was reportedly Thursday to be seriously considering rewriting its findings before presentation to Congress.

"It ignores people," said a spokesman for one of the three prominent union leaders on the year-old commission created by Congress at President Johnson's suggestion.

No Disruption
"No radical disruption of past trends is likely," said a draft copy of the commission's planned report which said automation and technological change have had little effect on unemployment since the Korean War.

The labor spokesman reported the commission's executive secretary, Garth Mangum, was shocked by the vehement labor reaction.

Labor members of the commission are Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO Auto Workers Union, Joseph Beirne, president of the AFL-CIO Communications Workers, and retired President A. J. Hayes of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists.

Mangum said the draft is not a final report and that several more meetings will be held before finishing the job, even though they would run the commission beyond its Jan. 1 expiration date.

Business Interest
A spokesman for one of the labor members of the commission asserted the commission is dominated by business interests which want to promote rapid automation of industry at the expense of workers.

Organized labor has been pressing to reduce the federal standard work week from 40 to 35 hours with heavy overtime penalties, as a means of spreading existing employment to counter the threat of automation.

The summary of the first draft of the automation commission's report particularly irked the labor members by dismissing this approach.

Hearing Set On Burglary Count

Preliminary hearing was set Jan. 12 for Henry Paul Reichel, 42, who appeared in Lancaster County Court Thursday on burglary and habitual criminal charges.

Reichel, of 1207 Charleston, was charged in connection with the Wednesday night break-in at the Shelly Equipment Co. at 934 U. and being a habitual criminal, having previously been convicted of two felonies.

Kids Taken Under Airmen's Wings

By DICK BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

Following a brief demonstration on the science of Judo, Staff Sgt. George Pacheco looked thoughtfully at his audience of 12 boys from Whitehall State Home for Children in Lincoln.

"How about you?" Sgt. Pacheco said, indicating Courtney Creighton, a lad of about 90 pounds.

There was another short pause while the sergeant explained the simple throwing maneuver. "Ready?" Sgt. Pacheco asked.

Creighton nodded yes, and with a quick step, slammed the stocky sergeant to the mat.

The Judo exhibition was part of a full day's visit planned by the 818th Combat Defense Squadron of Lincoln Air Force Base, the sponsoring organization of Whitehall Cottage 1 The dozen boys are members of Cottage 1.

Besides the visit — which included a tour of the base, the Judo exercise, a demonstration of sentry dogs in action and an afternoon of recreation — the 818th was responsible for raising funds through a cake sale and donations which netted nine truck-loads of Christmas presents for Whitehall boys and girls.

The last truck contained 21 re-worked bicycles, as well as tricycles and wagons.

Individual Gifts
"Of course, there were individual gifts for the 14 boys who sponsor in Cottage 1," Chief Warrant Officer Keith Canfield, base police officer, said.

But, to the men of the 818th, hosting the boys to a day at the base was as important as gifts and money.

"One of our objectives was to let these boys see that policemen, military or civilian, are human beings, too," Canfield said.

Another objective that looms larger for the 818th is sponsoring Cottage 1 after the squadron is moved out when LAFB is finally closed.

"We're trying to work it out so we can keep in touch by long distance," Canfield said. "Having someone who is interested in them is important to these boys," he added.

Yule Generosity Assists Needy

Christmas will be an unusually happy holiday for some 64 Lancaster County welfare families due to the generosity of several Lincoln individuals and groups.

According to the Lancaster

County Welfare Office, special baskets of food, toys and clothes were presented 64 needy families through donations of individuals, churches, social and business groups.

Some 500 Christmas trees were donated to be distributed to welfare and relief recipients and a substantial sum of money had been donated for the welfare department to use in purchasing items for families "which we couldn't provide," an official said.

Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert said that the donors are notified as to where their individual donation goes and for what purpose.

It was noted that several groups held parties for some of the welfare family children and one Lincoln business is providing a dinner delivered to the door for older welfare recipients who are unable to get out.

Top Army Doctor Warns Of Malaria

Washington (AP)—Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army's surgeon general, is seeking to alert civilian doctors of the danger that malaria might crop up among discharged troops and civilian workers returning to the United States from Viet Nam.

Heaton's office made this known following a report from a doctor that three cases of malarial fever — the worst kind — have been recorded in Colorado among servicemen recently discharged after duty in Viet Nam. One case proved fatal.

An aide to Heaton told a reporter:

"Gen. Heaton has asked the American Medical Association to publish an article he sent to them, so as to make civilian doctors aware of the danger. The average American doctor has not seen a malaria case in his own past experience. But Gen. Heaton feels they should be made aware that there probably will be cases not only among discharged servicemen but also among construction workers, newspapermen and State Department workers returning from Viet Nam, where they might have been exposed to it."

The informant, after checking with Army malarialogists, said there is only an "extremely remote possibility" of any other U.S. residents contracting malaria from a Viet Nam returnee.

In Denver, Dr. Cecil S. Molohan, a Colorado state health official, said all U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam are on suppressive treatment for malaria and that the three Colorado cases apparently had quit taking these drugs after their discharge early this month.

Heaton's aide said that, as of Dec. 1, 400 malaria cases from Viet Nam were under treatment in Army hospitals in the continental United States and Hawaii.

FCC Ignores AT&T Plea, Will Probe

Washington (UPI) — The Federal Communication Commission (FCC) turned aside protests Thursday and went ahead with plans for the first full-scale investigation of American Telephone and Telegraph Co. (AT&T) — the world's largest corporation.

The FCC, in a 5-1 vote, ordered public hearings before a three-member panel to investigate the Bell System's charges for interstate and overseas service and its book-keeping procedures.

The FCC brushed aside AT&T's complaint that the broad investigation would cost too much and take up too much time.

The FCC said it would consider whether any rate changes are warranted after cross-examination of witnesses and presentation of evidence by the FCC staff and other parties at the investigation.

Robert H. Marks, State Employee, Dies Suddenly

A state employee collapsed and died on the steps of the Capitol building Thursday as he was leaving for lunch.

Robert Harold Marks, 57, employed with the Tax Commission's Motor Fuel Division died shortly before noon. His fellow workers said he suffered a heart attack.

Mr. Marks, a Lincoln resident since 1939, is survived by his wife Grace, sons, Robert of Omaha and John of Lincoln, daughter, Mrs. John Kendrick of Lexington, Ken., and five grandchildren.

Mr. Marks lived at 1220 S. 49th. He was active in Lincoln area stamp clubs.

Services are pending at Roper and Sons', 4300 O.

Union Dissent Splits Automation Panel

Washington (AP)—A special commission is reported preparing to tell Congress that automation is not wiping out many jobs — and this conclusion apparently has infuriated some union leaders.

So sharp is the dissent of the three labor members of the 14-man National Commission on Technology, automation and Economic Progress that the commission was reportedly considering rewriting its findings before presentation to Congress.

Boy's Good Favor Turns Right Again

Memphis, Tenn. (AP)—David Ward, 13, had two new bicycles and a renewed faith in his Christmas spirit Thursday after a good-deed-turned-sour turned right again.

David took part of his small earnings as a drugstore delivery boy and bought a blind 71-year-old woman her first Christmas tree and a gift of some bath towels he had picked out himself.

But while David was visiting Mrs. Brady Neals with the gifts Wednesday, someone sawed the lock off the bicycle with which he earned his living and stole it.

Thursday the telephone at the drugstore jingled constantly with calls from sympathizers who had heard of David's plight.

A man called at the store early Thursday and left a bicycle for David. Another man called at David's home with a bicycle. Others sent money.

David, a shy youngster, seemed bewildered by it all. "He doesn't know what to think," said a store employee. "He just can't imagine anyone being that interested in him. He just wanted to help somebody."

Suit Filed In Ballroom Incident

John D. Graham filed a $40,155 damage suit in Lancaster District Court Thursday in connection with an assault and battery incident Dec. 4.

Graham alleges he was assaulted by the defendant, Richard L. Schamp, while the plaintiff was performing his duties as town marshal in Syracuse at the Syracuse Ballroom.

"It ignores people," said a spokesman for one of the three prominent union leaders on the year-old commission created by Congress at President Johnson's suggestion.

No Disruption

"No radical disruption of past trends is likely," said a draft copy of the commission's planned report which said automation and technological change have had little effect on unemployment since the Korean War.

The labor spokesman reported the commission's executive secretary, Garth Mangum, was shocked by the vehement labor reaction.

Labor members of the commission are Walter Reuther, president of the AFL-CIO Auto Workers Union, Joseph Beirne, president of the AFL-SIO Communications Workers, and retired President A. J. Hayes of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists.

Mangum said the draft is not a final report and that several more meetings will be held before finishing the job, even though they would run the commission beyond its Jan. 1 expiration date.

Business Interest

A spokesman for one of the labor members of the commission asserted the commission is dominated by business interests which want to promote rapid automation of industry at the expense of workers.

Organized labor has been pressing to reduce the federal standard work week from 40 to 35 hours with heavy overtime penalties, as a means of spreading existing employment to counter the threat of automation.

The summary of the first draft of the automation commission's report particularly irked the labor members by dismissing this approach.

Hearing Set On Burglary Count

Preliminary hearing was set Jan. 12 for Henry Paul Reichel, 42, who appeared in Lancaster County Court Thursday on burglary and habitual criminal charges.

Reichel, of 1207 Charleston, was charged in connection with the Wednesday night break-in at the Shelly Equipment Co. at 934 U. and being a habitual criminal, having previously been convicted of two felonies.

By DICK BUDIG
Star Staff Writer

Following a brief demonstration on the science of Judo, Staff Sgt. George Pacheco looked thoughtfully at his audience of 12 boys from Whitehall State Home for Children in Lincoln.

"How about you?" Sgt. Pacheco said, indicating Courtney Creighton, a lad of about 90 pounds.

There was another short pause while the sergeant explained the simple throwing maneuver.

"Ready?" Sgt. Pacheco asked.

Creighton nodded yes, and with a quick step, slammed the stocky sergeant to the mat.

The Judo exhibition was part of a full day's visit planned by the 818th Combat Defense Squadron of Lincoln Air Force Base, the sponsoring organization of Whitehall Cottage 1. The dozen boys are members of Cottage 1.

Besides the visit — which included a tour of the base, the Judo exercise, a demonstration of sentry dogs in action and an afternoon of recreation — the 818th was responsible for raising funds through a cake sale and donations which netted nine truck-loads of Christmas presents for Whitehall boys and girls.

The last truck contained 21 re-worked bicycles, as well as tricycles and wagons.

In addition, the squadron donated $95 in leftover funds to the Whitehall John F. Kennedy Swimming Pool fund.

Individual Gifts

"Of course, there were individual gifts for the 14 boys we sponsor in Cottage 1," Chief Warrant Officer Keith Canfield, base police officer, said.

But, to the men of the 818th, hosting the boys to a day at the base was as important as gifts and money.

"One of our objectives was to let these boys see that policemen, military or civilian, are human beings, too," Canfield said.

Another objective that looms larger for the 818th is sponsoring Cottage 1 after the squadron is moved out when LAFB is finally closed.

"We're trying to work it out so we can keep in touch by long distance," Canfield said.

"Having someone who is interested in them is important to these boys," he added.

City, county and state offices will be closed Friday since the holiday falls on Saturday.

All offices will be open Monday, Dec. 27, as usual.

Yule Generosity Assists Needy

Christmas will be an unusually happy holiday for some 64 Lancaster County welfare families due to the generosity of several Lincoln individuals and groups.

According to the Lancaster County Welfare Office, special baskets of food, toys and clothes were presented 64 needy families through donations of individuals, churches, social and business groups.

Some 500 Christmas trees were donated to be distributed to welfare and relief recipients and a substantial sum of money had been donated for the welfare department to use in purchasing items for families "which we couldn't provide," an official said.

Welfare Director J. Earle Trabert said that the donors are notified as to where their individual donation goes and for what purpose.

It was noted that several groups held parties for some of the welfare family children and one Lincoln business is providing a dinner delivered to the door for older welfare recipients who are unable to get out.

Proclamation Notes Call-Up Anniversary

Gov. Frank Morrison has proclaimed December 23-30 as Nebraska National Guard World War II Commemoration Week.

The move honors the 25th anniversary of the mobilization of the Nebraska National Guard involving 2,729 officers and men which took place Dec. 23, 1940.

The proclamation recognizes the guardsmen's "selfless devotion to the cause of freedom" and urges "all Nebraskans to support their local National Guard units in commemorating this significant event."

The Nebraska Guard was mobilized as the 35th (Santa Fe) Infantry Division and included the 69th Infantry Brigade, the 134th Infantry Regiment, the 110th Medical Regiment, and the 110th Quartermaster Regiment.

The 35th Division participated in five major operations during the war: Normandy, Northern France, Rhineland, Ardennes and Central Europe.

The unit received 35 distinguished service crosses, a distinguished service medal, 651 silver stars, 16 legions of merit, 32 soldiers medals, 42 air medals, 3,274 bronze star medals with 232 oak clusters and 15,000 purple hearts.

It also earned two distinguished unit citations and three meritorious unit citations.

Woman Injured In 2-Car Crash

Ruth M. Truax, 51, Rt. 3, was held at Bryan Memorial Hospital Thursday following a two-car mishap between Q and R on 9th.

Hospital authorities said Mrs. Truax had a stiff neck as a result of the mishap. Driver of the other car was James R. Stidd, 27, of 3930 No. 12th, police said.

Florida Man, 36, Sentenced On 4 Dyer Act Counts

Floyd W. Morris, 38, of Miami, Fla., was sentenced to a total of 12 years imprisonment by Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt Thursday on charges of transporting stolen autos across state lines.

Morris pleaded guilty to four counts of violation of the federal Dyer Act.

The judge sentenced him to three years imprisonment on each count, with the terms to run consecutively.

Viet Nam Slides Will Be Shown

A veteran missionary from Viet Nam is presenting a program of color slides on the country at the Green Memorial Alliance Church, 41st and Madison, at 7 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Royce Rexilius will show slides he took during his 10-year stay in Viet Nam. The slides will include both city and rural scenes in Viet Nam with rare pictures of mountain tribes. The church's pastor, the Rev. R. J. Easterday, said the program is open to the public.

COED

is Thursday bride

In the presence of members of the immediate families and a small group of friends, the marriage of Miss Tranda Ann Schultz, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Bertrand Schultz, to John David Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Cummins of Falls City, was solemnized Friday evening, Dec. 24. The Rev. Darrel E. Berg read the lines of the service at Trinity Methodist Church.

Miss Donna Kay Schultz, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Cheri Chaffin, Norfolk, wore daytime frocks of red wool and shoulder corsages.

Serving as best man was Wayne Kreuscher, and the groomsmen were Richard Halbert, Falls City.

For her wedding, the bride wore a slim-skirted suit of white wool, designed with a draped collar and bracelet sleeves. Her Dior head bow of white velvet was briefly veiled, and she completed her ensemble with a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummins are both students at the University of Nebraska, where the bride is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Theta Sigma Phi journalism honorary. She is a member of The Lincoln Star reportorial staff. Mr. Cummins is a member of Theta Xi fraternity and Phi Eta Sigma scholastic honorary.

In the midst of the holiday hubbub we failed to mention an event of great importance—the first day of winter, Dec. 21. Along with being the first day it is also the shortest, and this year it was probably the warmest, too, in many winters.

COTNER TERRACE

The talk at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lehr is not of Christmas trees and exciting gifts but of football and Jan. 1. The Lincoln twosome will leave Tuesday will be staying along with other Nebraska passengers on the special chartered bus. After the excitement of Miami the travelers will return Jan. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. James Schlegelmilch and family also will be traveling but to a family reunion. Christmas Eve will be spent in York as the guests of Mrs. Schlegelmilch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Don Watt. On the 25th the two families will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schlegelmilch of York. The Lincoln travelers will return to the city on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tetherow are planning to be very busy hosts this holiday season. Guests on the 25th will be Mrs. Tetherow's two brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts of Craig, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Roberts of Chicago, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Tetherow and their guests will attend a Christmas Day dinner in Ashland where Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ballou will be host and hostess.

Later in the holiday week the Tetherows will again be a host and hostess as Mr. Tetherow's mother, Mrs. P. N. Tetherow, and brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Tetherow of Quincy, Wash., arrive to help celebrate the season.

Celebrating the holiday season last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Loren Bonneau who held an open house for their neighbors and friends.

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

From bowling balls and tennis shoes to Christmas cookies and party attire—that's what happened when the bowling team members held their holiday party. Hostess to the cookie exchange last Friday was Mrs. Wilber Weideman, and her guests were Mrs. Jerry Carter, Mrs. Bob Gies, Mrs. O. D. Hobert, Mrs. Richard Heironymus, Mrs. Norman Weideman, Mrs. William Loew and Mrs. Steve Mehuron.

Traveling to Columbus for Christmas dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Fiala will be the guests of Mr. Fiala's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Flowers. Accompanying their parents on the trip will be Ruth, Marilyn, Russ and Terri.

EASTMONT

Other out-of-state visitors arriving in Lincoln are Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cox and son James of Chicago, who arrived Wednesday, and their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Geoff Stelling, and son Danny of Lexington Park, Md. The travelers are dividing their stay between the home of Mr. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Cox, and the home of Mrs. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Albrecht.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wall will be arriving in Lincoln to be the holiday guests of Mrs. Wall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Sell. While in the city they will attend the wedding of Mrs. Wall's twin brother, Dean Sell, to Miss Sharon Miller on Sunday, Dec. 26.

CHOSE

afternoon service

Lighted white candles against a background of frosted evergreen trees appointed the chancel of the First Methodist Church on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23, for the wedding of Miss Sandra Kay Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wright, and Mitchell Andrew Terkildsen, stepson of Max D. Williamson of Soda Springs, Calif. The Empire frocks fashioned with moss green brocade basques and slim skirts of candlelight crepe were worn by the attendants, Mrs. Gordon Smith of Los Alamos, N.M., as the matron of honor; Miss Penny Dye, the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Elaine Kves, Elk Grove, Calif., and Miss Janet Wright, sister of the bride.

Carlef Terkildsen of Sacramento, Calif., served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Don Kruse, Walnut Grove, Calif.; Conrad Solt, Cherokee, Okla.; and Michael Wright, brother of the bride.

The bride's gown of white satin was trimmed with imported Alencon lace traced with seed pearls. The lace framed the portrait neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and the slender skirt was caught into back fullness and continued into a cotillion train.

The couple will live in Sacramento, where the bride is attending Sacramento State College. A former student at the University of Nebraska, she is a member of Delta Gamma. Mr. Terkildsen is a graduate of Sacramento State College, where he served as president of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, and currently is a student at McGeorge College of Law.

was a reunion of former classmates

What could be nicer for a reunion than the holiday season when everyone is home from far-away places, college classes, or exciting careers? Such a reunion was held last Tuesday morning, when Miss Sherry Rosewell was hostess at her home to a group of former Southeast High School classmates.

The members of the Class of '63 were so busy catching up on all the news there was scarcely time for coffee or the Christmas gift exchange, during which — we presume to guess—there was an exchange of "remember when—".

Book Club

Entertained

Dr. and Mrs. George Strassler were host and hostess at their home recently at a holiday party for which their guests were the members of the third year discussion group of the Lincoln Great Books Series.

Special guests were officers of the Great Books Council including Dr. Howard W. Ottoson, immediate past president; Mrs. William Maly, president; George A. Ball, treasurer; and leaders, Mrs. Dermot Coyne and Mrs. Howard W. Ottoson. Also a guest for the evening was Mrs. L. G. Munday.

Dr. Strassler serves as vice president of the council.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tetherow are planning to be very busy hosts this holiday season. Guests on the 25th will be Mrs. Tetherow's two brothers and their families, Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts of Craig, Colo., and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Roberts of Chicago, Ill. Mr. and Mrs. Tetherow and their guests will attend a Christmas Day dinner in Ashland where Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ballou will be host and hostess.

Later in the holiday week the Tetherows will again be a host and hostess as Mr. Tetherow's mother, Mrs. P. N. Tetherow, and brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Tetherow of Quincy, Wash., arrive to help celebrate the season.

Celebrating the holiday season last Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Loren Bonneau who held an open house for their neighbors and friends.

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

From bowling balls and tennis shoes to Christmas cookies and party attire—that's what happened when the bowling team members held their holiday party. Hostess to the cookie exchange last Friday was Mrs. Wilber Weideman, and her guests were Mrs. Jerry Carter, Mrs. Bob Gies, Mrs. O. D. Hobert, Mrs. Richard Heironymus, Mrs. Norman Weideman, Mrs. William Loew and Mrs. Steve Mehuron.

Traveling to Columbus for Christmas dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Fiala will be the guests of Mr. Fiala's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Flowers. Accompanying their parents on the trip will be Ruth, Marilyn, Russ and Terri.

EASTMONT

Other out-of-state visitors arriving in Lincoln are Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Cox and son James of Chicago, who arrived Wednesday, and their son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Geoff Stelling, and son Danny of Lexington Park, Md. The travelers are dividing their stay between the home of Mr. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Cox, and the home of Mrs. Cox's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Albrecht.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wall will be arriving in Lincoln to be the holiday guests of Mrs. Wall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Sell. While in the city they will attend the wedding of Mrs. Wall's twin brother, Dean Sell, to Miss Sharon Miller on Sunday, Dec. 26.

COED

is Thursday bride

In the presence of members of the immediate families and a small group of friends, the marriage of Miss Tranda Ann Schultz, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. Bertrand Schultz, to John David Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel J. Cummins of Falls City, was solemnized Friday evening, Dec. 24. The Rev. Darrel E. Berg read the lines of the service at Trinity Methodist Church.

Miss Donna Kay Schultz, as her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Cheryl Chaffin, Norfolk, wore daytime frocks of red wool and shoulder corsages.

Serving as best man was Wayne Kreuscher, and the groomsman was Richard Halbert, Falls City.

For her wedding, the bride wore a slim-skirted suit of white wool, designed with a draped collar and bracelet sleeves. Her Dior head bow of white velvet was briefly veiled, and she completed her ensemble with a white orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummins are both students at the University of Nebraska, where the bride is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority and Theta Sigma Phi journalism honorary. She is a member of The Lincoln Star reportorial staff. Mr. Cummins is a member of Theta Xi fraternity and Phi Eta Sigma scholastic honorary.

CHOSE

afternoon service

Lighted white candles against a background of frosted evergreen trees appointed the chancel of the First Methodist Church on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23, for the wedding of Miss Sandra Kay Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wright, and Mitchel Andrew Terkildsen, stepson of Max D. Williamson of Soda Springs, Calif. The Empire frocks fashioned with moss green brocade basques and slim skirts of candlelight crepe were worn by the attendants, Mrs. Gordon Smith of Los Alamos, N.M., as the matron of honor; Miss Penny Dye, the maid of honor; and the bridesmaids, Miss Elaine Kves, Elk Grove, Calif., and Miss Janet Wright, sister of the bride.

Carle Terkildsen of Sacramento, Calif., served his brother as best man, and seating the guests were Don Kruse, Walnut Grove, Calif.; Conrad Solt, Cherokee, Okla.; and Michael Wright, brother of the bride.

The bride's gown of white satin was trimmed with imported Alencon lace traced with seed pearls. The lace framed the portrait neckline of the long-sleeved bodice, and the slender skirt was caught into back fullness and continued into a cotillion train.

The couple will live in Sacramento, where the bride is attending Sacramento State College. A former student at the University of Nebraska, she is a member of Delta Gamma. Mr. Terkildsen is a graduate of Sacramento State College, where he served as president of Sigma Pin Epsilon fraternity, and currently is a student at McGeorge College of Law.

was a reunion of former classmates

What could be nicer for a reunion than the holiday season when everyone is home from far-away places, college classes, or exciting careers. Such a reunion was held last Tuesday morning, when Miss Sherry Rosewell was hostess at her home to a group of former Southeast High School classmates.

The members of the Class of '63 were so busy catching up on all the news there was scarcely time for coffee or the Christmas gift exchange, during which—we presume to guess—there was an exchange of "remember when—"

Book Club Entertained

Dr. and Mrs. George Strassler were host and hostess at their home recently at a holiday party for which their guests were the members of the third year discussion group of the Lincoln Great Books Series.

Special guests were officers of the Great Books Council including Dr. Howard W. Ottoson, immediate past president; Mrs. William Maly, president; George A. Ball, treasurer; and leaders, Mrs. Dermot Coyne and Mrs. Howard W. Ottoson. Also a guest for the evening was Mrs. L. G. Munday.

Dr. Strassler serves as vice president of the council.

HOSTESS to pep squad at holiday dinner

Hostess to the 24 members of the club was Miss Connie Unger who entertained at dinner at the home of her parents.

free. And the moment he is loose he heads for the home of a neighbor just as fast as his stubby little legs will carry him. There he is welcome with open arms by a household of kids who love him. The parents have offered to buy the dog, but the owners refuse to sell. Outside help is needed.

DOG LOVER

DEAR DOG LOVER: It's a dog-gone shame to imprison the hide of a creature whose heart is elsewhere. But the animal belongs to the people who own it, no matter who "loves" it more, or whom the dog prefers. But keep trying.

Dear Guys:

How does one say "Season's Greetings" to men in action where seasons are scarcely noted and the surroundings are nothing like home? The Yuletide in your American homeland won't be quite the same without you. And I know that millions of Americans would like to send you personal greetings with gratitude were it possible.

I have no official right to speak for anyone else to convey a holiday message of love and kisses, and of a deeply-felt prayer for your success and safety. But I can feel the pulse of your country, boys, and I say it is steady and strong and in rhythm with your efforts. So, strange as it may sound, in a place where merriness is a memory and happiness a stranger, Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to the American armed and special forces across the seas! We love you and want you back when the job you are doing for all of us is done. God bless you, kids.

Sincerely yours, Abby

DEAR ABBY: Does a dog belong to the family who buys him or to the family who prefers to live with? There is a dachshund down the street that is a real little charmer. The people who own him try to keep him at home, but he cries and chews his rope and constantly tries to get

DEAR ABBY: I am eleven years old and in the sixth grade. Every semester the kids in our room elect a king and queen. Last Monday we took a vote and a king and queen were chosen. On Wednesday the king told us that his father was being transferred out of town and they were moving, so we had better pick another king to take his place. Well, we took a vote and I was picked. On Friday the old king came to school with the news that his father's boss said they didn't have to move out of town, so he could be king again. Now the class is having trouble trying to decide who should be king, him or me. What do you think?

"KING CHARLES"

DEAR KING CHARLES: I think you should remain king. And this should be a lesson to all kings and queens. Don't turn in your crowns until you're certain your father is being transferred out of town.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "DICK IN DIXIE": A "pro" is one who can do a first-class job whether he feels like it or not.

Why Grow Old? questions and answers Josephine Lowman

Q. Is there any way to keep the hair on the upper lip from standing out so much?

A. You can remove the hair by using a facial depilatory. However, this is temporary. A foundation rather heavily applied should make the hairs lie flatter.

Q. I am a girl of 12 and just 5 feet all. I weigh 106 pounds. I don't really think I am fat, but a lot of people call me "Fatso," mainly boys. My bones are medium size. Please tell me what I should weigh if I am fat.

A. You are a little on the chubby side, but not enough to be called "Fatso." You should weigh around 95 pounds.

Q. I have scars on my face from several years ago and they are becoming more noticeable. Any suggestions?

A. I think you must imagine that they are becoming more noticeable. Scars fade and dim with time. In fact that's all I know to do, give them time. You didn't say how large they are. If they are really blemishing, see a skin specialist.

HAIRY LEGS

Q. I am 14 years old. My problem is having hairy legs. I have never shaved them. They are not really bad, but would be much better if my mother would let me shave them. My mom says that if you think it would be all right she will permit me to remove the hairs. I don't see why she objects. I'm probably the only one in my school who has hairy legs.

A. Your mom probably objects because she is afraid that shaving will make the hairs grow in thicker and coarser. Many people have this mistaken idea. There is no evidence that this is true. She may also know that once you start it is best to continue shaving because the ends of the hairs are blunt after they are cut. If you were my daughter, I would allow you to shave your legs.

Q. I have dry skin, but I want to bleach out my neck and arms and shoulders. Have you any help for this problem?

A. Add the juice of several lemons and two or three cups of baby oil to your bath. Then soak in it.

Q. What sort of make-up can I use to cover up freckles?

A. Any good foundation should do the job. I will be glad to give you the names of some if you wish and will send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Neb.

BRIDGE test your dummy play

B. Jay Becker

TEST YOUR PLAY

You are declarer with the "Vest hand" at Six No Trump and North leads the jack of clubs. How would you play the hand? (Assume that the diamonds are divided 3-1, in which case the contract can be made regardless of how the remaining North-South cards are divided.)

♠ A Q J ♠ J 6 4
 ♥ A Q 10 ♥ J 6 4 2
 ♦ A Q 9 7 ♦ K 6 5 4 3
 ♣ A K Q 4 ♣ 5

You have to play carefully to be 100% sure of this hand. Win the club, cash the ace of diamonds, and then play the queen of hearts!

If either opponent elected to take the queen with the king, you would have twelve tricks. You would win any return, cash the A-10 of hearts, and next the Q-K of diamonds. You would then play the jack of hearts, discarding the nine of diamonds. With the diamonds now unblocked, you would cash the 6-5 and thus make the contract.

But let's suppose that the defense refuses the queen of hearts. In that case, you continue with the ten. If either opponent took the ten, you would again have twelve tricks, playing essentially as described before.

It is possible that the opponents will refuse the ten also. In that case, just to be consistent lead the queen of spades.

Let's assume that the queen is taken with the king. Again you would be able to unblock the diamonds by discarding the nine of diamonds on the jack of spades, and would easily make the contract.

If the queen of spades is refused, you can now assure the contract without bothering to unblock the diamonds. You simply cash twelve tricks consisting of two spades, three hearts, four diamonds and three clubs.

Note that you cannot afford to cash the ace of hearts before attempting to force out the king. You must underlead the ace each time to be sure of the contract. Against certain distributions, leading the ace would be fatal if the defense played correctly.

It would also be wrong to start off by cashing the A-Q of diamonds. If you now tried to give up a trick in hearts or spades, you might then be in trouble if the player with the king took it and returned a diamond, thus blocking the suit. One other pitfall to avoid is to tackle spades before hearts. This could also prove fatal under some conditions.

All in all, this problem—composed by I. T. Sun, of New York—is a fine exercise in technique. No doubt the defense can become difficult and complicated if declarer swerves from his proper line of play, but who ever said that bridge is an easy game?

Chapel Wedding

Miss Dorothy Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Peterson, became the bride of Lt. Michael Culwell, USAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Culwell of Ft. Worth, Tex., at a 4 o'clock service, Thursday afternoon, Dec. 23. The ceremony was solemnized in the chapel of Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Miss., by Chaplain Raseberry, with only the members of the immediate families attending.

The couple will reside in Biloxi, where Lt. Culwell, a graduate of the University of Nebraska, is stationed at Keesler Base. A student at Nebraska Wesleyan University, the bride is a member of Delta Zeta sorority.

Following a brief pre-holiday visit in Lincoln at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Flansburg, Kenneth Martin left on Wednesday for the west coast where he will spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Zenus Martin, at Torrance, Calif. After the holidays, Mr. Martin will return to his classes in submarine school at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station near Chicago.

Dear Readers: The Pacific Stars and Stripes, a semi-official daily newspaper, under authority of the Department of Defense, has a readership of some 200,000 servicemen in the Far East, including Japan, Korea, Taiwan, Okinawa, the Philippines, Guam and Vietnam. James H. Shaw, their assistant feature editor, asked me to write a special Christmas letter to the "guys" who read my column in their paper. I did. Filling Christmas Stockings

Trying to fill the stockings of area sports personalities tonight while stopping briefly in Lincoln en route from Phoenix to Miami:

Game Commission Director Mel Steen—A sled that will make his slide downward easier from the "King of the Hill" he claimed he was playing last summer.

Director of Parks and Recreation Jim Ager—A tidy little check that would put the fund for the Junior Golf Course over its goal.

Hillcrest Country Club Pro Bunny Richards—Nothing. It's enough of a gift for him that he doesn't have to worry about hosting the State Ladies Golf Tournament for another five years or so.

Nebraska Football Coach Bob Devaney—A personal DC-6 so when it rains at one site where he hoped to practice, he could just load the plane and go to Acapulco or Rio de Janeiro.

Amateur Wrestling Buff Newt Copple—A permanent migration of about 5,000 staunch wrestling fans from Oklahoma so he could start writing in black ink on the ledger for the Great Plains AAU Tournament.

NU Trainers Paul Schneider and George Sullivan—A lifetime contract assuring Bob Devaney's staying forever at Nebraska, a fact that makes their job one of the easiest in the land with Devaney never getting anyone hurt in practice sessions.

State and City Ladies Golf Champion Dorothy Schwartzkopf—Two more championships in both classes before stepping down to turn the reigning role over to daughter Christie.

Nebraska Assistant Football Coach Carl Selmer—A head coaching job somewhere so that he can display his great ability as a tactician and as a public relations man plus all the other qualities of a head coach that he possesses.

Nebraska Defensive Backfield Coach Jim Ross—A future football schedule made up of 10 teams with lame-armed quarterbacks.

Nebraska Basketball Coach Joe Cipriano—A tornado that would destroy Kansas City's Municipal Auditorium just after he had beaten Missouri and either Oklahoma or Oklahoma State to reach the championship round of the Big Eight Tournament against Kansas.

Minor League Baseball Manager Larry Shepard—A chance to manage a major league team before he goes on Social Security.

Sports Information Director Don Bryant—Another full-time assistant who could handle all sports but football.

Nebraska State Men's Amateur Golf Champion Bob Astleford—A clean bill of health from the United States Golf Association so that he can continue as the king of amateur golf in Nebraska.

State Fair Manager Henry Brandt—More horse racing dates and cool temperatures during those dates.

Golden Gloves Chairman Bill DeRock—Another amateur boxing find like Colin Moon of two years ago and Loyal Lybarger of a year ago to hypo interest in the Golden Gloves.

NU Grounds Keeper Bill Shepard and Equipment Manager Gil Babcock—Golf bag cover bags to make hauling of sports writers golf clubs on football training trips easier.

NU Baseball Coach Tony Sharpe—A blank check so he can keep the pro baseball people from taking the Stan Bahnsens away from him.

State Ladies Golf Runner-Up Christie Schwartzkopf—Continued enthusiasm to keep her golf game going until mother Dorothy decides to stick her clubs in the closet for good.

NU Track Coach Frank Sevigne—Complete recovery from his airplane accident of last fall.

Lincoln Country Club Pro Bud Williamson—A couple of quick birthdays so he can get into the over-55 division of the PGA Seniors Tournament and away from Sam Sneed.

NU Backfield Coach Mike Corgan—Some hair restorer to get his dome back in shape.

NU Athletic Business Manager Bill Fisher—A pair of dark glasses so he could fill the complete bill of the foreign espionage agent. He already has the proper hat, trench coat, attache case and saddle shoes.

NU Athletic Director Tippy Dye—A winning basketball team to go with the football success so he can gain credit as "the man who brought Joe Cipriano to Nebraska" along with bringing Devaney to NU.

Holmes Park Pro John Young—A 36-hour day so he can fit in another couple of classes for the beginning golfers in the Capital City.

NU Ticket Manager Jim Pittenger—A 120,000 seat stadium so he could keep all Nebraska football fans happy.

NU Minor Sport Coaches Dick Klaas, Jake Geier, Harry Good Ed Higginbotham and Orval Borgialli—A separate man to handle their publicity in the NU Sports Information Office.

Pioneers Park Golf Pro John Peterson—New tees on half of the golf holes at his course.

NU Assistant Coach George Kelly—Assurance that our government will never start rationing bread.

NU Freshman Coach John Melton—A ban on all airline travel for a man who gets scared just by making airplane reservations.

NU Concessions Manager Ike Hanscom—Plenty of help when he has to tackle the job of getting ready for the State High School Basketball Tournament crowd.

Golfer Matt Taber—An American Express credit card so he can make his assorted golf jaunts now and pay later.

City Recreation Superintendent Bob Dula—More softball fields and an all-purpose recreation center.

NU Assistant Football Coaches Tom Osborne and Cleatus Fischer—Some of the recognition they deserve for all the work they do in the background.

Golfer Charlie Borner—Four top rounds of golf so that he can make a run at Bob Astleford in the State Men's Golf Tournament next summer.

All The State's Amateur Golfers—A decision soon by the Nebraska PGA on plans for next summer's men's tournament so they can set their vacation ideas accordingly.

Lincoln's American Legion Junior Baseball Players—A rodeo site in the city so that Sherman Field will be left exclusively to them.

RAMS' MENTOR FIRED

HIGH BUT NOT DRY... Packer center Ken Bowman bites his tongue as he leaps a fence and a big puddle after practice in a drenching rain at Green Bay.

Lombardi Starts War Of Nerves

... INVITES BALTIMORE TO BLITZ PACKERS' PASSERS

Green Bay, Wis. (AP)—Coach Vince Lombardi fired the first shot in what may prove to be a war of nerves with Baltimore Colts' Don Shula Thursday.

He all but invited the Colts to use the blitz against the Green Bay Packers Sunday in the playoff for the National Football League's Western Conference crown.

Lombardi also warned of the difficulties the Packers face in trying to beat the Colts for a third time this season.

Lombardi noted that Baltimore sent linebackers or defensive backs crashing through the Los Angeles Rams' forward wall 25 times last Saturday in the Colts' 20-17 victory.

"Twenty-five times," said Lombardi, whose Packers rarely use the blitz technique. "That's more than half the time blitzing."

The Colts tried to blitz the Packers two weeks ago when Green Bay trounced Baltimore 42-27 to gain—temporarily—undisputed possession of first place in the conference. The Packers fell into a tie last Sunday when the San Francisco 49ers deadlocked them 24-24.

Twice against the Colts the Packers took advantage of the vacancy in the secondary created by a blitzing defender to score on touchdown passes.

Lombardi may have had that in mind when he said:

"The blitz doesn't bother the passer. That's a lot of bunk. It puts pressure on him but it doesn't bother him."

"In fact," Lombardi said, "passers gain an open receiver when the blitz is on."

"Nobody blitzes us very much," Lombardi said.

Asked if he was inviting Shula to order the blitz Sunday, Lombardi replied "I got no answer to that."

Lombardi made clear that the Colts had one advantage—their 0-2 record against the Packers which may breed a strong revenge motive.

"It's pretty hard to beat a team three times in a season. I don't care who they are," Lombardi said.

The Packer coach said it was not a question of getting his own team up.

"It's the other team you have to worry about. In other words it's an objective thing, not subjective thing. It's not a lack of spirit on our part. It's the other team you have to think about."

As a matter of fact, Lombardi said, the Packers' spirit in their workout Thursday was excellent.

The Packers practiced in a chilling rain for about an hour, concentrating again on defending against unknown quantity Tom Matte, a half-back filling in at quarterback for their injury-shelved John Unitas and Gary Cuozzo.

—THREE ON EACH TEAM—

Six All-Americans To Play In Shrine

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Six All-America players—three on each side—will spark the action Christmas day when football teams from the North and South clash in the Shrine's 18th annual college All-Star game.

The colorful, always wide-open contest will be televised from the Orange Bowl by ABC with the kickoff at 3:30 p.m., CST.

North Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame inherited three All-Americans, including two from his own 1965 team—guard Dick Arrington and defensive halfback Nick Rassas. The other is tackle Karl Singer of Purdue, who will start beside Arrington in the offensive line.

Playing for South Coach Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa from the All-America team will be his own all-time record-breaking pass catcher, Howard Twilley, and two ferocious linebackers, Tommy Nobis of Texas and Ed Weisacosky of Miami.

Gambling offenses are almost always employed in this game played for fun and the support of the Shrine hospitals for crippled children.

The South, with Tulsa's spectacular passing combination of Bill Anderson to Twilley, certainly will stage an aerial circus. Anderson and Twilley teamed up to rewrite the major league record book last season.

With them in the opening offensive lineup will be running back Rodger Bird, Kentucky's top scorer, and wingback

Calvert's Determination Nets Offensive Starting Position

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—If Johnny Calvert had reported to another college wanting to play offensive guard, chances are he might have been turned away.

Calvert, a Cullman junior, came to the rescue from centerlinebacker slot after Bama's offensive line didn't show up well in the season opener against Georgia.

John is blessed with the desire and intestinal fortitude and through hard work has become a fine blocker. In almost every game he is confronted with the task of challenging a larger opponent, but each game he graded out well at his position.

Calvert is one of the reasons why Alabama's passing game has been so successful in the latter stages of this season. His pass blocking, along with Paul Crane, Cecil Dowdy and others was instrumental in Bama's success.

John is known as a hollar guy and is one of the most spirited members of the Crimson Tide. He is a great morale booster, quick to applaud a teammate and is becoming a fine leader among the Tiders.

He was a center in high school and a member of the state championship team at Cullman, along with teammates Les Kelley and Wayne Trimble, who are also starters for the Tide.

Svare's Pact Not Renewed

... SEVERAL POSSIBLE SUCCESSORS

Los Angeles (AP)—The defeat-plagued Los Angeles Rams of The National Football League fired head Coach Harland Svare Thursday.

President Daniel F. Reeves said "It has been decided not to renew Harland Svare's contract for the 1966 season."

"We have several persons in mind as possible replacements but no definite decision has been reached. It would be premature to disclose the names of these persons."

"The decision to replace Harland was a most difficult one."

"While there are many mitigating circumstances causing the Rams' losing record, it is felt a fresh approach is necessary."

Svare, the dapper 35-year-old bachelor who replaced Bob Waterfield with six games remaining in 1962, was contacted by a club spokesman, apparently at his home.

His statement as dictated, according to Rams' publicity director Jack Teele, was:

"I'm very disappointed that we couldn't have won more football games. I have no regrets about the experience. I thoroughly enjoyed it."

"I thought we made some progress but it's the nature of professional football that you must win."

"I have the highest respect for Dan Reeves and the Rams organization, and I want to wish the team success. I don't think it will be too much longer before the Rams become a winner."

Svare said he has no plans at this time for the future.

In Svare's six games as interim coach in 1962, the Rams were 0-5-1.

His record for 1963 was 5-9;

1964, 5-7-2, and 1965, 4-10.

Optimism was high before the start of the 1965 season. In the opener, Los Angeles lost 20-0 to Detroit, but came from behind to whip the Chicago Bears 30-28.

Eight straight losses followed, and in the eighth setback the Rams' starting quarterback, Bill Munson, was injured and lost for the season.

Team hopes revived as Roman Gabriel replaced Munson and led the Rams to successive triumphs over Green Bay, St. Louis and the champion Cleveland Browns.

Apparently the roof collapsed for Svare with that defeat.

Rumors began to fly about Svare's successor.

Coach John McKay of the University of Southern California reportedly is a prospect, although there has been no indication that he would be interested in leaving college football for the pros.

George Wilson, former coach of the Detroit Lions; George Allen, an assistant to George Halas of the Chicago Bears; and Buddy Parker, late of the Pittsburgh Steelers, were also mentioned.

AK-SAR-BEN INAUGURATION

Nebraska Begins Racing Honorary

Omaha—Plans were announced Thursday for the establishment of a Nebraska Racing Hall of Fame.

This shrine to Nebraska's outstanding personalities in Thoroughbred racing will be inaugurated at Ak-Sar-Ben Field where appropriate recognition will be paid to the honorees.

In making the announcement, Tom Brock general manager of Ak-Sar-Ben, declared:

"We feel that Nebraskans in Thoroughbred racing should be put into the spotlight and their achievements acclaimed so that all of the nation may be aware of them."

"Thoroughbred racing in Nebraska is making vast strides forward and we want to take part in the proper recognition of the outstanding feats which are accomplished by Nebraskans."

Brock said that a permanent selection committee will be named in the near future. This committee will be entrusted with the task of choosing those to be honored in the Nebraska Sports Hall of Fame. Details of presentations and permanent records of the Hall of Fame will be revealed at a later date.

JOHN BRODIE

John Brodie Makes Best Comeback

New York (AP)—John Riley Brodie didn't really make a comeback this year. He merely came into his own as a top flight quarterback in the National Football League. Perhaps, the best title would be Most Improved.

Whatever the title, Brodie won recognition for a superb performance that lifted the San Francisco 49ers out of the cellar. For lack of a better name, a panel of 42 sports writers and a sportscastrer, three from each league city, named Brodie The Associated Press Comeback of the Year award in the NFL.

An auto accident crippled Brodie in 1963 and he saw only limited service, but he saw limited service, but he came back strong in 1964 and set 49er club records. However, his excellence was not universally recognized and there were persistent rumors that he might be traded.

The emergence of Brodie as a star quarterback in 1965 was accomplished with the help of Y. A. "Little, acting as a special assistant coach.

George Mira, who had been expected to become heir to the throne, sat out most of the year while Brodie completed 61.9% of his passes. 242 of 391, and threw for 30 touchdowns and 3,112 yards.

Although Brodie's TD total, completions and yardage led the league he was ranked in the NFL ratings based on proficiency in several different areas. It was Brodie's passing to Dave Parks and Vern Burke last Sunday that forced Green Bay into a tie playoff with Baltimore for the Western Conference title.

Tommy McDonald, a g a b flanker back of the Los Angeles Rams, was second to Brodie in the voting. Brodie had 12 votes and McDonald seven for his fine year as a pass catcher with the Rams, who acquired him from Dallas during the off season.

John David Crow of the 49ers drew four votes for his rejuvenation at San Francisco after he was traded by St. Louis. Rudy Bukich, who became the Chicago Bears' No. 1 quarterback after many years of frustration, also received four votes.

Amos Marsh, shuffled off to Detroit by the Dallas Cowboys just before opening day, won three votes for his fine job with the Lions. Marsh finished 14th among the running backs with 495 yards on 171 carries.

Jerry Kramer, Green Bay guard whose future as a pro football player seemed behind him when he underwent a series of major operations last year, fought his way back into the starting line-up. He received two votes.

Stephen G. Songster Smokes San Felice Now.

Songster

"This is what I call mildness," says Stephen G. Songster of Lincoln, who used to be a confirmed 10-cent cigar smoker. Now Stephen smokes the incredibly mild new San Felice. He gets all the mildness in the world for only 3¢.

In the final game of the season the Baltimore Colts, with Johnny Unitas out of action and a makeshift offense hurriedly installed, won 20-17. Apparently the roof collapsed for Svare with that defeat.

Rumors began to fly about Svare's successor.

Coach John McKay of the University of Southern California reportedly is a prospect, although there has been no indication that he would be interested in leaving college football for the pros.

George Wilson, former coach of the Detroit Lions; George Allen, an assistant to George Halas of the Chicago Bears, and Buddy Parker, late of the Pittsburgh Steelers, were also mentioned.

—AK-SAR-BEN INAUGURATION—

Nebraska Begins Racing Honorary

Omaha — Plans were announced Thursday for the establishment of a Nebraska Racing Hall of Fame.

This shrine to Nebraska's outstanding personalities in Thoroughbred racing will be inaugurated at Ak-Sar-Ben Field where appropriate recognition will be paid to the honorees.

In making the announcement, Tom Brock general manager of Ak-Sar-Ben, declared:

"We feel that Nebraskans in Thoroughbred racing should be put into the spotlight and their achievements acclaimed so that all of the nation may be aware of them.

"Thoroughbred racing in Nebraska is making vast strides forward and we want to take part in the proper recognition of the outstanding feats which are accomplished by Nebraskans."

Brock said that a permanent selection committee will be named in the near future. This committee will be entrusted with the task of choosing those to be honored in the Nebraska Sports Hall of Fame. Details of presentations and permanent records of the Hall of Fame will be revealed at a later date.

Lombardi Starts War Of Nerves

... INVITES BALTIMORE TO BLITZ PACKERS' PASSERS

Green Bay, Wis. (AP)—Coach Vince Lombardi fired the first shot in what may prove to be a war of nerves with Baltimore Colts' Don Shula Thursday.

He all but invited the Colts to use the blitz against the Green Bay Packers Sunday in the playoff for the National Football League's Western Conference crown.

Lombardi also warned of the difficulties the Packers face in trying to beat the Colts for a third time this season.

Lombardi noted that Baltimore sent linebackers or defensive backs crashing through the Los Angeles Rams' forward wall 25 times last Saturday in the Colts' 20-17 victory.

"Twenty-five times," said Lombardi, whose Packers rarely use the blitz technique. "That's more than half the time blitzing."

The Colts tried to blitz the Packers two weeks ago when Green Bay trounced Baltimore 42-27 to gain temporarily undisputed possession of

first place in the conference. The Packers fell into a tie last Sunday when the San Francisco 49ers deadlocked them 24-24.

Twice against the Colts the Packers took advantage of the vacancy in the secondary created by a blitzing defender to score on touchdown passes.

Lombardi may have had that in mind when he said:

"The blitz doesn't bother the passer. That's a lot of bunk. It puts pressure on him but it doesn't bother him."

"In fact," Lombardi said, "passers gain an open receiver when the blitz is on."

"Nobody blitzes us very much," Lombardi said.

Asked if he was inviting Shula to order the blitz Sunday, Lombardi replied "I got no answer to that."

Lombardi made clear that the Colts had one advantage—their 0-2 record against the Packers which may breed a strong revenge motive.

"It's pretty hard to beat a team three times in a season. I don't care who they are," Lombardi said.

The Packer coach said it was not a question of getting his own team up.

"It's the other team you have to worry about. In other words it's an objective thing, not subjective thing. It's not a lack of spirit on our part. It's the other team

—THREE ON EACH TEAM—

Six All-Americans To Play In Shrine

Miami, Fla. (AP) — Six All-America players — three on each side—will spark the action Christmas day when football teams from the North and South clash in the Shrine's 18th annual college All-Star game.

The colorful, always wide-open contest will be televised from the Orange Bowl by ABC with the kickoff at 3:30 p.m., CST.

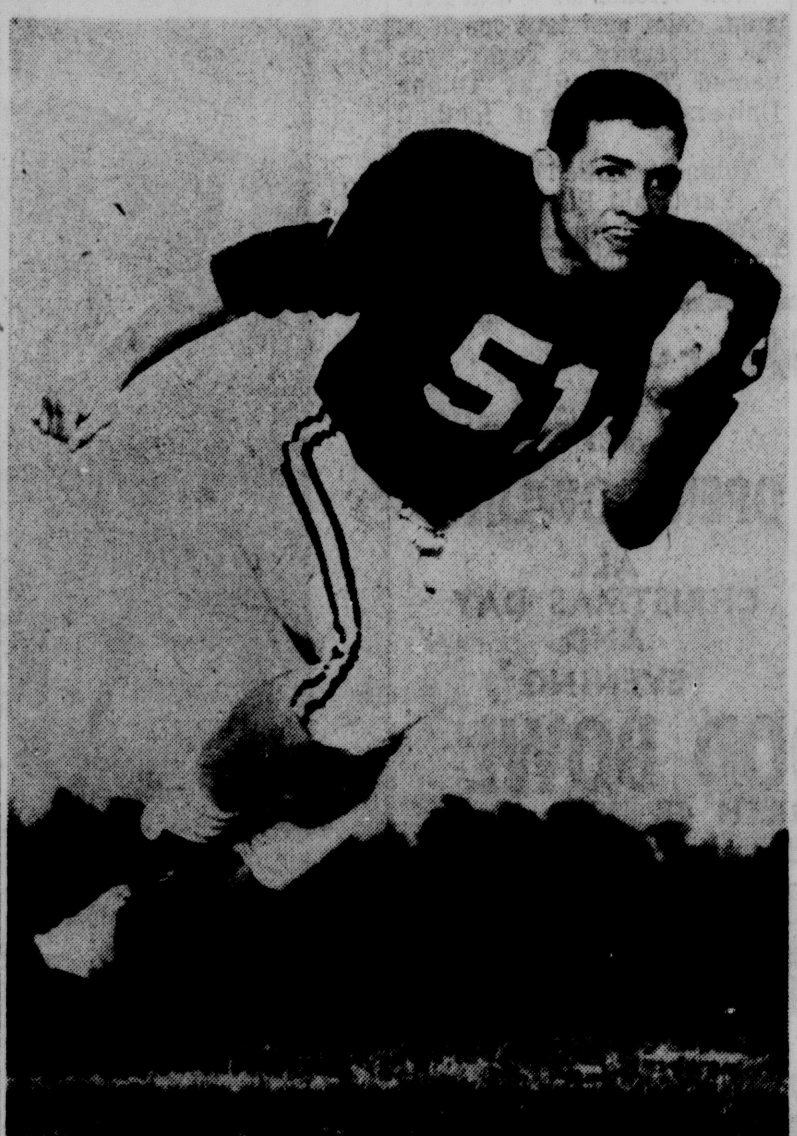

North Coach Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame inherited three All-Americans, including two from his own 1965 team—guard Dick Arrington and defensive halfback Nick Rassas. The other is tackle Karl Singer of Purdue, who will start beside Arrington in the offensive line.

Playing for South Coach Glenn Dobbs of Tulsa from the All-America team will be his own all-time record-breaking pass catcher, Howard Twilley, and two ferocious linebackers, Tommy Nobis of Texas and Ed Weisacosky of Miami.

Gambling offenses are almost always employed in this game played for fun and the support of the Shrine hospitals for crippled children.

The South, with Tulsa's spectacular passing combination of Bill Anderson to Twilley, certainly will stage an aerial circus. Anderson and Twilley teamed up to rewrite the major college record book last season.

With them in the opening offensive lineup will be running back Roger Bird, Kentucky's top scorer, and wingback

Calvert's Determination Nets Offensive Starting Position

Tuscaloosa, Ala.—If Johnny Calvert had reported to another college wanting to play offensive guard, chances are he might have been turned away.

But the determined, little 185-pound brawler has done a great job as Alabama's right offensive guard in this year's Southeastern Conference championship run.

Calvert, a Cullman junior, came to the rescue from centerlinebacker slot after Bama's offensive line didn't show up well in the season opener against Georgia.

John is blessed with the desire and intestinal fortitude and through hard work has become a fine blocker. In almost every game he is confronted with the task of challenging a larger opponent, but each game he graded out well at his position.

Calvert is one of the reasons why Alabama's passing game has been so successful in the latter stages of this season. His pass blocking, along with Paul Crane, Cecil Dowdy and others was instrumental in Bama's success.

John is known as a hollar guy and is one of the most spirited members of the Crimson Tide. He is a great morale booster, quick to applaud a teammate and is becoming a fine leader among the Tiders.

He was a center in high school and a member of the state championship team at Cullman, along with teammates Les Kelley and Wayne Trimble, who are also starters for the Tide.

JOHN BRODIE

John Brodie Makes Best Comeback

New York (AP)—John Riley Brodie didn't really make a comeback this year. He merely came into his own as a top flight quarterback in the National Football League. Perhaps, the best title would be Most Improved.

Whatever the title, Brodie won recognition for a superb performance that lifted the San Francisco 49ers out of the cellar. For lack of a better name, a panel of 42 sports writers and sportscasters, three from each league city, named Brodie The Associated Press Comeback of the Year award in the NFL.

An auto accident crippled Brodie in 1963 and he saw only limited service, but he came back strong in 1964 and set 49er club records. However, his excellence was not universally recognized and there were persistent rumors that he might be traded.

The emergence of Brodie as a star quarterback in 1965 was accomplished with the help of Y. A. "Little, acting as a special assistant coach.

George Mira, who had been expected to become heir to the throne, sat out most of the year while Brodie completed 61.9% of his passes, 242 of 391, and threw for 30 touchdowns and 3,112 yards. Although Brodie's TD total, completions and yardage led the league he was ranked in the NFL ratings based on proficiency in several different areas. It was Brodie's passing to Dave Parks and Vern Burke last Sunday that forced Green Bay into a tie playoff with Baltimore for the Western Conference title.

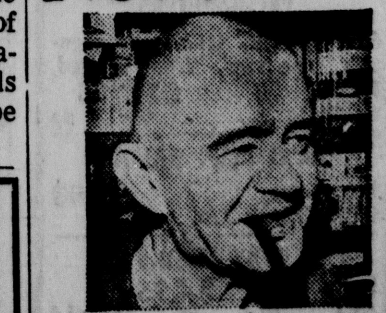

Tommy McDonald, a g a b flanker back of the Los Angeles Rams, was second to Brodie in the voting. Brodie had 12 votes and McDonald seven for his fine year as a pass catcher with the Rams, who acquired him from Dallas during the off season.

John David Crow of the 49ers drew four votes for his rejuvenation at San Francisco after he was traded by St. Louis. Rudy Bukich, who became the Chicago Bears' No. 1 quarterback after many years of frustration, also received four votes.

Amos Marsh, shuffled off to Detroit by the Dallas Cowboys just before opening day, won three votes for his fine job with the Lions. Marsh finished 14th among the running backs with 495 yards on 171 carries.

Jerry Kramer, Green Bay guard whose future as a pro football player seemed behind him when he underwent a series of major operations last year, fought his way back into the starting line-up. He received two votes.

Stephen G. Songster Smokes San Felice Now.

Songster

"This is what I call mildness," says Stephen G. Songster of Lincoln, who used to be a confirmed 10-cent cigar smoker. Now Stephen smokes the incredibly mild San Felice. He gets all the mildness in the world for only 5¢.

Baltimore Dusts Off Old Joke About Pro Choices

... SANDUSKY, PREAS DON'T NEED RECOGNITION

Baltimore, Md. (AP) — The Baltimore Colts dusted off their long-standing joke when the All-National Football League and Pro Bowl selections were announced this week.

"Well, Alex and George didn't make it again," goes the oneliner aimed at guard Alex Sandusky and tackle George Preas.

But it's more than locker room humor. It's a wry compliment for two veterans respected by teammates who believe they have been underrated and overlooked during their NFL careers.

Sandusky, a 12-year veteran, and Preas, completing his 11th season, will retire after the current campaign without ever playing in the Pro Bowl or being named to the all-league first team.

But, both have a chance to bow out in style by playing in their fourth NFL championship game.

Preas and Sandusky will be shoulder-to-shoulder on the right side of Baltimore's offensive line when the Colts meet the Green Bay Packers in a playoff Sunday for the Western Conference Title. The winner will play Cleveland for the league crown on Jan. 2.

"Another championship would be a great way to bow out," Sandusky said Thursday. "I thought we had a helluva team this year, and then luck went against us and we were hit with injuries. Now we're scratching for our lives. We've been crippled before, but never like this during my 12 seasons. We're fortunate getting a chance to play for the conference title."

Sandusky referred to a series of injuries which struck the Colts late in the season, climaxed by those which forced quarterbacks John Unitas and Gary Cuozzo to undergo surgery. Tom Matte, a converted halfback, started at quarterback last week in the 20-17 upset victory over the Los Angeles Rams and will be at the helm against Green Bay.

"I think our effort against the Rams was our best ever," Preas said. "We enjoyed it as much as the sudden-death title game against New York in 1958. We'll need a similar effort this week."

Coach Don Shula, who had to replace defensive stars Gino Marchetti and Bill Pelington this season, will be just as hard pressed to replace his offensive stalwarts.

"Alex and George have made a big contribution to the club with their durability and knowhow," Shula said. "They never complain or ask for help but just do the job."

"The biggest compliment to a player is how this opponents rate him." When defensive stars like Alex Karras and Merlin Olsen publicly state Sandusky is one of the best they ever faced, that means more to Alex than making all-pro. And Preas is respected as a real pro.

Sandusky, who missed stalling only on game — because of an injury — since he was a rookie in 1954, has learned to live with his virtual anonymity.

"As long as I was able to play, I didn't mind not being selected," he said. "It's a job ... and a good one."

BAACK LEADS NU SCORING

Brown deadlocked Johnny Morris of the Bears for third place a year ago, behind Unitas and Lennie Moore of the Colts.

The 1544 yards compiled by Brown was all the more remarkable in the light of his challengers' performances.

The yardage was almost double the 867 rolled up by the second-place Sayers. His nine-year rushing total now is 12,312, another NFL mark.

Brown, however, likes to share the credit for his remarkable success with Cleveland's offensive line.

"They are the best in the business," Brown says of his teammates. "They don't receive nearly the amount of credit they should. It would be impossible for any running back to gain much yardage and maintain a respectable average unless he was getting extra effort from the men who play in front of him. Our offensive linemen have been just magnificent."

The linemen feel the same way about Brown.

"Week after week, all of us continue to be amazed by Jim Brown," states tackle Dick Schafrahn, an all-star in his own right.

Rifleman Report Great Success

Rifleman chalked up a total 64.75 per cent success in special deer hunts held on three refuge areas, the Game Commission reports.

The four-day hunt on the Valentine Refuge ended Tuesday, with 150 gunners taking 32 deer for a 21.3 per cent success. Valentine was open to bucks-only hunting this year. In 1963, hunters scored 46 per cent success there when the area was open to white-tail-only shooting.

Two-day, either-sex seasons were held on the Gifford Unit and at DeSoto Bend. Of 150 hunters, 133 scored at Gifford for an 88.6 per cent success.

At DeSoto, 100 rifleman chalked up an 84 per cent success.

Advance Ticket Sales To Reach $1 Million

St. Louis, Mo. (AP) — The planned move into the new downtown sports stadium next spring apparently is the reason for record advance ticket sales to the St. Louis Cardinals 1966 home baseball games.

The National League club announced Thursday its advance ticket sales had reached $820,535, topping last year's record sales by $19,222. The Cardinals said this year's sales might top $1 million by Jan. 1.

Other leaders in the poll were Doug Dickie, Tennessee; Bob Blackman, Dartmouth; Frank Broyles, Arkansas; and Bob Devaney, Nebraska.

Jim Pittman Named As Tulane's Head Coach

New Orleans (AP) — Jim Pittman, chief assistant coach at the University of Texas, was named Thursday as Tulane University's head football coach.

Tulane Athletic Director Rix N. Yard said Pittman signed a five-year contract at Austin, Tex., for an undisclosed price.

Nearest to the coach of MSU's unbeaten Big Ten champions and Rose Bowl entry in the voting was Daugherty's bowl rival, Tommy Prothro of UCLA.

Sayers Gives, Gets Award

Omaha (AP) — Gale Sayers, whose debut into professional football with the Chicago Bears this fall was nothing less than sensational, came home Thursday night to bestow an award and to get one.

Sayers presented the Henry Monsky Lodge of B'nai B'rith annual sports trophy to Randy Reeves, Omaha Benson track and field star.

Then Sayers received from Bert Render of B'nai B'rith a plaque as Omaha's greatest pro football player.

Also present was Bob Church of Omaha, Nebraska quarterback. Sayers took a note of Church's presence and said "in my book he's the No. 1 Nebraska quarterback."

Sayers, who played at Kansas, cited the 91-yard touchdown pass play Church started in Nebraska's defeat of Kansas last year to help beat Sayers and Kansas.

$10,000 Hickok Award To Brown

New York (AP) — Jim Brown, the human battering ram of the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League, is the winner of the November award in the race for the $10,000 S. Rae Hickok belt, awarded annually to the outstanding pro athlete.

Brown, main offensive weapon of the NFL's Eastern Conference champions, received 28 first place votes from the national panel of sports writers and broadcasters. He collected 128 points. Gale Sayers, the Chicago Bear rookie back, was second with 19 firsts and 100 points.

Adams County Real Property Value Hiked $10.2 Million

Adams County real property has been reappraised at $146,321,300 by an independent appraisal firm, State Tax Commissioner George Dworak reported Thursday.

This is a $10.2 million boost over the county's current valuation of $136,103,763, which includes a 31% increase on rural property ordered this year by the State Board of Equalization.

Dworak said the reappraisal figures boost rural valuation by 8.8% over the current level, urban by 5% and the county's largest city, Hastings, by 6.9%.

Dworak said the scientific reappraisal was made by the Justin-Haynes Appraisal Co. of Denver, Colo., and has been approved by the Adams County commissioners.

He said Hastings' valuation was increased from $71.1 million to $76.1 million by the reappraisal, but "some of smaller towns decreased."

Dworak said the firm's preliminary figures are being studied by his office and he expects to confer with the county assessor and the appraisal firm before making a decision on whether to accept the appraisal.

Dworak noted that Adams County signed a scientific reappraisal contract prior to the state's 1963 reappraisal law.

Appointments To Retirement Board Early

Gov. Frank Morrison Thursday reported he selected five county officials to serve on the newly created state retirement board for counties, then learned appointment to the board was premature.

Selected to serve on the board were Lancaster County Commissioner Ralph Harlan, Douglas County Commissioner John Cavanaugh, Adams County Deputy Atty. William Connelly, Buffalo County School Supt. Alexis Johnson and Lincoln County Clerk Louis Deost.

The governor said he notified the five of their selection, but five days later sent letters stating the appointments would have to await county votes to determine participation under the law.

The last Legislature passed the County Employees Retirement Act, which provides for the establishment of a retirement system for county employees and elected county officials already covered by a retirement plan.

County participation will be determined by popular vote.

Donald Elfeldt, 45, one of two Lincoln men charged with circulating obscene photographs, was fined $500 Thursday in Lancaster District Court by Judge Elmer Scheele.

Elfeldt had pleaded guilty to the high-grade misdemeanor charge Nov. 24.

He and Sterling Maus, 38, were arrested after officers confiscated a large number of pornographic papers and photographs.

Maus has pleaded nolo contendere to the charge, was found guilty and is expected to be sentenced next month.

Lincoln Minister Is Sued For $478,239 In U.S. Court

A $478,239 damage suit has been filed in U.S. District Court against a Lincoln minister in connection with a Jan. 7 car accident.

The suit was filed by Vern Monroe on behalf of Orville H. Monroe, a former employee at the Skyline Dairy.

The suit alleges that as a result of negligent driving by the Rev. Herman K. John, Orville Monroe suffered permanent injuries.

The suit states the accident occurred on Interstate 80 between Lincoln and Milford, it said Monroe was a passenger in the Rev. Mr. John's car at the time.

New SS Beneficiaries Sought By Lincoln Office

The Social Security Administration is trying to locate people belonging to three groups who have become eligible for benefits under changes made in the system in June of this year.

Included are people over 65 who are not now receiving any payments, students aged 18-22 who are children of a parent who has received benefits, and widows over 60 whose husbands were eligible for social security.

A. F. Silber, district manager of the Social Security Administration in Lincoln, reports that there are no records of these people. Thus they must contact his office in order to receive the benefits due them.

The people over 65, Silber said, "include persons who never were covered by Social Security as well as those who are still working and have never applied for benefits."

He emphasized that it is "desirable for them to apply now to qualify for medicare protection that begins in July 1966."

Plan A, free hospitalization, is available to everyone 65 years of age or older. Plan B, voluntary insurance to cover other medical expenses, must be applied for and will cost $3 a month starting next July.

Unmarried full-time students up to age 22 who are children of an insured retired, disabled, or deceased parent are also eligible for monthly payments. The age limit was formerly 18.

"Students who satisfy these requirements and who were dropped from the social security rolls when they reached 18 should call the Social Security office," Silber advised. "In many cases benefits can be paid retroactively to January 1965."

Widows of insured deceased workers, who formerly became eligible for benefits at age 62, may now receive them at age 60. Silber said, however, that the amount of the payments would be permanently reduced.

Silber also announced that the Social Security District Office in Lincoln is now open Thursdays until 8 p.m. and will be open from 9-12 a.m. Saturdays during January, February, and March.

The office is located in room 400 of the National Bank of Commerce building at 15th & O.

He said Hastings' valuation was increased from $71.1 million to $76.1 million by the reappraisal, but "some of smaller towns decreased."

Dworak said the firm's preliminary figures are being studied by his office and he expects to confer with the county assessor and the appraisal firm before making a decision on whether to accept the appraisal.

Dworak noted that Adams County signed a scientific reappraisal contract prior to the state's 1963 reappraisal law.

50TH ANNIVERSARY HAIRCUT
Fred Odens, Sibley, Iowa, farmer, is getting a haircut from George Tressler in preparation for Odens' 50th wedding anniversary celebration. As Odens sat down, he asked the barber, "Didn't you cut my hair on my wedding day 50 years ago?" Sure enough, he had.

$7,371 U.S. Grant Awarded State For Poverty Aide

State Technical Assistance Director Ron Jensen reported Thursday the regional director of the federal Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) has approved a $7,371 Nebraska grant for the hiring of a field staff specialist.

Jensen said the grant, although not important or large, was an example, though, of the de-centralization by OEO.

His office previously had to wait three months for approval from Washington, he said.

"This application shows the OEO is permitting the states to assume a larger role in the administration of the anti-poverty program," Jensen said.

Returned Approved

He said he submitted the application Dec. 1 to Kansas City-based Regional Director Don Thomson, and it was returned approved within three weeks.

Jensen indicated that in the future, all but large multi-million dollar requests will be funneled into Kansas City, and except for unforeseen blockages, should be heading back to Nebraska, approved, within a month.

The heart of the federal anti-poverty program, Jensen said, is Title Two A, which is designed to stimulate community action programs.

More than $2.25 million has been received by the state for the present fiscal year, he said, and the state has used about half that amount on community-initiated projects.

Will Pick Up

This section of the act will probably pick up, Jensen said, after his office hires the field specialist whose job is to work with communities to formulate programs eligible for federal aid.

Jensen said he expects to hire the specialist in January.

Half Of Nebraska's Water Leaves State Unused, Survey Reveals

A State Water Resources Department study Thursday showed that about one half of Nebraska's 7.6 million acre-feet of annual water outflow leaves the state unused.

Most of the unused water is flood run-off.

"Roughly 50% of our water outflow served some useful purpose in the state," said Assistant Water Resources Director M. E. Ball, "but the rest of it flowed through the state without being used."

The study showed that outflow totals, and the percentages of unused water, increase greatly during years of major flooding.

The study, based on records dating back to the late 1800s, indicated that about two million acre-feet of each annual outflow was used for power purposes and another one million acre-feet was used for irrigation.

Waters entering Nebraska from neighboring states total about 1.1 million acre-feet annually, and this inflow, coming primarily through the North Platte and South Platte Rivers, is used almost completely in irrigation, the study showed.

Ball compiled the figures at the request of Sen. Arnold Ruhnke of Plymouth, chairman of the Legislative Council's water study committee.

Sen. Ruhnke said he is attempting to determine what steps can be taken to reduce the amount of unused water flowing out of Nebraska.

The Niobrara River expels an average of 1,194,000 acre-feet annually, the Big Blue and Little Blue Rivers, 740,000 acre-feet, and the Republican River, 513,000 acre-feet.

Ball said there also is a small percentage of outflowing waters which cannot be measured.

He said records of the department's various check stations in the state show that the amount of water outflow and percentage of unused outflow have both decreased in recent years.

However, he said greater utilization of Nebraska's water supply still is one of the primary challenges facing the state.

Ball said he will conduct a study later to determine the probable impact of future U.S. Bureau of Reclamation projects on the Nebraska water outflow.

He said the bureau's Mid-state Project, planned development in the Loup River system and on the Little Blue River and projects at O'Neill and Ainsworth should reduce the percentage of unused water in the outflow.

He said Hastings' valuation was increased from $71.1 million to $76.1 million by the reappraisal, but "some of smaller towns decreased."

Dworak said the firm's preliminary figures are being studied by his office and he expects to confer with the county assessor and the appraisal firm before making a decision on whether to accept the appraisal.

Dworak noted that Adams County signed a scientific reappraisal contract prior to the state's 1963 reappraisal law.

Van Pelt To Hear Pope Arguments On January 7th

Federal District Judge Robert Van Pelt Thursday set Jan. 7 for considering oral arguments in two post-trial motions by attorneys for condemned killer Duane E. Pope.

Pope, 22, of Roxbury, Kan., was sentenced to death after a federal court jury found him guilty Dec. 3 on charges stemming from the June 4 bank robbery at Big Springs.

Pope's attorneys, calling the jury verdict a miscarriage of justice and vowing to carry the case to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary, filed motions asking for a new trial and reduction of Pope's sentence from death to life imprisonment.

The attorneys alleged 30 errors were made during the month-long trial.

Stock Market Lesson Is Mixed

New York (UPI)—In dull pre-holiday trading, the stock market showed mixed trends Thursday but again managed to post highs in two averages.

Cautions ruled prior to the three-day Christmas weekend. Exchanges will be closed Friday.

Volume slipped to 6.88 million shares from 7.75 million Wednesday.

The Dow Jones industrial average ended with a small gain of .50 at 966.36, enough to top Wednesday's high of 965.75, the latter being the first record for the average since Nov. 4.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks also improved its record made at the close Wednesday, rising to 357.7 from 357.0, a record high, with the latter being the first record for the average since Nov. 4.

The records made by these averages were attributed to the fact that more stocks fell than rose in the overall list, a showing that paralleled Wednesday's. Only selective strength in blue chip components of these market indicators made the new records possible.

Among the 30 most active stocks, 18 advanced, 68 declined and 497 advanced. New highs for the year totalled 40 and new lows 25.

Among the 30 most active stocks, 18 advanced, 68 declined and 497 advanced. New highs for the year totalled 40 and new lows 25.

Prices were generally lower. Volume continued to be a factor. The Dow Jones industrial average ended with a small gain of .50 at 966.36, enough to top Wednesday's high of 965.75, the latter being the first record for the average since Nov. 4.

Barrows And Glits 50c To $1 Higher

Omaha (UPI)—Barrows and glits ranged 50c to $1 higher at Omaha Thursday.

Fed steers ranged steady but beef prices were weak.

There were no reported early trends on the sheep market.

Dragon Charges Police Chief With Duty Neglect

Natchez, Miss. (AP) — The Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America Thursday night swore out an affidavit before a judge charging Natchez Police Chief J. T. Robinson with wilful neglect of duty.

Sheriff Odell Anders said he served the affidavit, sworn to by Klan Grand Dragon E. L. McDaniel, on Robinson and accepted bond from the police chief.

The move came after civil rights leaders ordered a renewed boycott against Natchez merchants earlier in the day, charging them with violating a three week-old settlement of racial differences.

McDaniel's affidavit, made before County Judge Robert Bonds, charged Robinson with refusal to arrest persons violating state laws. The affidavit cited laws against liquor sales, gambling, prostitution and breach of the peace.

The specifics were not learned. Neither was it learned when Robinson is supposed to appear before Judge Bonds for a hearing on the charges.

Negro pickets appeared outside several stores as shoppers crowded the streets to complete last minute Christmas shopping.

Charles Evers, NAACP state field secretary, said Negroes will stage a Christmas Eve afternoon march through the business district unless two policemen involved in a racial flare-up Wednesday are fired.

Evers earlier scheduled a march at 11 a.m. Friday at nearby Fayette, where Negroes launched a boycott of white merchants similar to one which crippled Natchez business until it ended Dec. 3.

Sixty state highway patrolmen have been ordered into the tense rural town to keep order during the demonstration—which Evers said would include 2,000 marchers.

In both Fayette and Natchez — in southeast Mississippi — Evers demanded desegregation of public facilities, upgrading Negro jobs, hiring Negro policemen and use of the titles Mr., Mrs., and Miss in addressing Negroes.

He called for a black Christmas in Fayette, without Christmas decorations and no shopping downtown in the little town of 1,600 just 25 miles north of Natchez.

The NAACP leader said two officers beat Negroes unnecessarily with their clubs and demanded that they be fired. Unless they are, he said, Negroes would march during the Christmas Eve afternoon shopping period.

Women In Car Killed By Train

Wataga, Ill. (UPI) — Two young women were killed instantly Thursday when their rural car was struck by a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train at a rural crossing 1 1/2 miles north of here.

The dead were identified as Margie Williams, 22, Wataga, the driver of the car, and Alice Radenbaugh, 15, Victoria.

SUSPECT CAPTURED

FBI Nabs Fugitive In Battle

Washington (AP)—James Edward Kennedy, 28, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was arrested Thursday night in Worcester, Mass., after a gun battle with federal agents and Worcester police.

Kennedy, driving a new car on a Worcester street, tried to elude the FBI and fired point-blank at agents, an FBI spokesman said here. They returned the fire, nicking Kennedy in the arm, and closing in for the arrest.

The FBI said Kennedy, a convicted bank robber, had fled from the fourth floor of the Cuyahoga County Jail in Cleveland, Ohio, the night of Nov. 10, 1964, by using a bed-sheet rope. He sawed through steel cell bars with smuggled hack saw blades.

Kennedy had been brought to Cleveland from the Federal Penitentiary at Marion, Ill., to face armed robbery charges stemming from another holdup. He already had received a 20-year federal prison sentence for a November 1963 Columbus, Ohio, bank robbery.

Arrested with Kennedy Thursday night was Paul V. Davis, 26, described by the FBI as a Massachusetts state parole violator. Kennedy had a .38 caliber pistol and Davis a .22 caliber pistol when arrested.

The pair will be arraigned and held in the Charles Street Jail at Boston, the FBI said.

Owner Puzzled; House Disappears

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Missing: One two-and-one-half story frame house.

It was there, right at 1947 Irwin St. on the city's North Side. Then, suddenly, it was gone. It had been razed to its foundation and Herbert Atkins — the owner — can't understand what happened.

Atkins said he gave no order for the house to be torn down. Although he owned the property, the house was a rental and in recent weeks had been unoccupied.

In fact, Atkins found out about the house being torn down when he received word Thursday from his rental agency.

He said the structure was worth about $4,500. Just recently he had talked with a potential buyer.

A neighbor said a wrecking crew showed up last week. Police wondered if the dismantlers had got the wrong house.

Fired Teachers Ask City Mediation

New York (AP)—Spokesman for 31 teachers fired by St. John's University asked Thursday for city or state mediation of their dispute with the administration. They have threatened to strike when classes resume Jan. 3 at St. John's, the nation's largest Roman Catholic university.

Caulfield Named Water Council's Executive Head

Washington (UPI)—Henry P. Caulfield Jr. has been appointed executive director of the new Federal Water Resources Council, it was announced Thursday.

The council was established by the new Water Resources Planning Act to serve as a Cabinet-level agency to coordinate the federal role in water conservation.

Caulfield formerly was director of the resources program staff of the Interior Department.

St. Peter's Jumper
Vatican City (AP)—A jobless Italian tried to plunge 400 feet from the inside rim of St. Peter's dome to the main altar. Vatican gendarmes saw him in time and stopped him.

City Labor Commissioner James J. McFadden offered his services. He invited representatives of the university and the AFL-CIO Union Federation of College Teachers to his office on Tuesday.

The administration had no comment. The Very Rev. Joseph T. Cahill, president of St. John's, said Wednesday the university does not recognize the union.

The Rev. Peter O'Reilly, spokesman for the fired teachers, told a news conference that only negotiations can prevent a long strike.

Father Cahill said the trustees have authorized creation of a faculty senate next semester, which will give the teachers a greater voice. But, he said, the trustees won't act as a "rubber stamp" for any faculty suggestion.

Justice Department Asks Court To Deny Hoffa Appeal

Washington (AP)—The Justice Department asked the Supreme Court Thursday to turn down a bid by Teamster's Union President James R. Hoffa for a review of his jury tampering conviction.

Hoffa faces a prison term of eight years and a $10,000 fine under the conviction that involved bribing of a juror in an earlier trial in Nashville, Tennessee.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has denied Hoffa's motion for a new trial, overruling his objections to the way the Chattanooga jury tampering trial was conducted.

Dragon Charges Police Chief With Duty Neglect

Natchez, Miss. (AP) — The Grand Dragon of the United Klans of America Thursday night swore out an affidavit before a judge charging Natchez Police Chief J. T. Robinson with wilful neglect of duty.

Sheriff Odell Anders said he served the affidavit, sworn to by Klan Grand Dragon E. L. McDaniels, on Robinson and accepted bond from the police chief.

The move came after civil rights leaders ordered a renewed boycott against Natchez merchants earlier in the day, charging them with violating a three week-old settlement of racial differences.

McDaniels' affidavit, made before County Judge Robert Bonds, charged Robinson with refusal to arrest persons violating state laws. The affidavit cited laws against liquor sales, gambling, prostitution and breach of the peace.

The specifics were not learned. Neither was it learned when Robinson is supposed to appear before judge Bonds for a hearing on the charges.

Negro pickets appeared outside several stores as shoppers crowded the streets to complete last minute Christmas shopping.

Charles Evers, NAACP state field secretary, said Negroes will stage a Christmas Eve afternoon march through the business district unless two policemen involved in a racial flare-up Wednesday are fired.

Evers earlier scheduled a march at 11 a.m. Friday at nearby Fayette, where Negroes launched a boycott of white merchants similar to one which crippled Natchez business until it ended Dec. 3.

Sixty state highway patrolmen have been ordered into the tense rural town to keep order during the demonstration—which Evers said would include 2,000 marchers.

In both Fayette and Natchez — in southeast Mississippi — Evers demanded desegregation of public facilities, upgrading Negro jobs, hiring Negro policemen and use of the titles Mr., Mrs., and Miss in addressing Negroes.

He called for a black Christmas in Fayette, without Christmas decorations and no shopping downtown in the little town of 1,600 just 25 miles north of Natchez.

The NAACP leader said two officers beat Negroes unnecessarily with their clubs and demanded that they be fired. Unless they are, he said, Negroes would march during the Christmas Eve afternoon shopping period.

SUSPECT CAPTURED

FBI Nabs Fugitive In Battle

Washington (AP)—James Edward Kennedy, 28, one of the FBI's 10 most wanted fugitives, was arrested Thursday night in Worcester, Mass., after a gun battle with federal agents and Worcester police.

Kennedy, driving a new car on a Worcester street, tried to elude the FBI and fired point-blank at agents, an FBI spokesman said here. They returned the fire, nicking Kennedy in the arm, and closing in for the arrest.

The FBI said Kennedy, a convicted bank robber, had fled from the fourth floor of the Cuyahoga County Jail in Cleveland, Ohio, the night of Nov. 10, 1964, by using a bed-sheet rope. He sawed through steel cell bars with smuggled hack saw blades.

Kennedy had been brought to Cleveland from the Federal Penitentiary at Marion, Ill., to face armed robbery charges stemming from another holdup. He already had received a 20-year federal prison sentence for a November 1963 Columbus, Ohio, bank robbery.

Arrested with Kennedy Thursday night was Paul V. Davis, 26, described by the FBI as a Massachusetts state parole violator. Kennedy had a .38 caliber pistol and Davis a .22 caliber pistol when arrested.

The pair will be arraigned and held in the Charles Street Jail at Boston, the FBI said.

Owner Puzzled; House Disappears

Pittsburgh (UPI) — Missing: One two-and-one-half story frame house. It was there, right at 1947 Irwin St. on the city's North Side.

Then, suddenly, it was gone. It had been razed to its foundation and Herbert Atkins — the owner — can't understand what happened.

Atkins said he gave no order for the house to be torn down. Although he owned the property, the house was a rental and in recent weeks had been unoccupied.

In fact, Atkins found out about the house being torn down when he received word Thursday from his rental agency.

He said the structure was worth about $4,500. Just recently he had talked with a potential buyer.

A neighbor said a wrecking crew showed up last week. Police wondered if the dismantlers had got the wrong house.

Boom To Chug Right Into 1966

Paris (UPI)—The United States economy is likely to continue booming well into 1966 and there are good prospects of the foreign payments deficit being slashed and, in the still further, the 21-nation Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) predicted Thursday.

However, in a survey of the U.S. economy at the year's end, it cautioned that the United States is nearing full employment and may have trouble keeping a tight lid on wages and prices.

It also warned that the foreign payments outlook for the latter part of 1966 is uncertain.

SCULPTOR'S 'ST. LUKE' CHAINED TO POLE

"Modernistic deviationism" is what San Francisco sculptor Elio Benvenuto gave as the reason for the removal of his six-ton statue, "St. Luke," from the new St. Luke's Roman Catholic Church in Stockton. He claims that the church still owes him $3,900 of the $27,000 due him for the art work. The wrapped statue is now chained to a pole, right, in a parking lot.

Stink Strayed, Town Frayed

Elsinore, Calif. — This sounds ridiculous, but with Elsinore mineral water, you can't make a cent without a scent.

This small community in Southern California's rolling ranchland, which once lost a money-making lake, now has lost a smell that makes cash registers jingle . . . the undesirable odor of rotten eggs.

Townsmen can't wait to get it back.

Elsinore traditionally has had two things to brag about:

1. Lake Elsinore, a renowned recreation center, and 2. Its mineral waters.

Lake Went Away

The lake up and vanished—evaporated—during a dry spell a few years ago and the town's economy languished. Finally money was raised to fill 'er up again, and now water skiers and bathers flock to its shores.

Many of the tourists want to take the mineral baths, too. So a year ago the city installed a system enabling central area residents to bring the water to their property at their own expense. Owners of hotels and motels were quick to take advantage.

But the water, stored in a reservoir and exposed to the air for an extended period of time, lost its hydrogen sulfide and its distinctive aroma.

Though the water retained its mineral properties and its therapeutic value, tourists, missing the smell, were hard to convince.

Smell Part Of It

"We've had a lot of complaints about the loss of the smell," said Ben Corazza, president of the Civic Improvement League. "The hot water baths are definitely a tourist attraction, but the people want the smell."

Motel owner Mrs. F. A. N. C. Y. Somergrd concurred.

So to retrieve the coveted pungency, the league and hotel and motel owners prevailed upon the city to install a closed pressure system.

The water will be pumped from the wells into a storage tank holding about 2,000 gallons. From the tank it will be pumped by pressure to the users, its smell intact.

Now "the league's happy with what is being done," said Corazza.

On the foreign deficit problem the OECD survey said an important objective now must be to consolidate the recent improvement and to make further progress towards external balance.

The survey said that to achieve elimination about the dollar's parity, it is essential that the virtual stability of prices and labor costs in recent years should be maintained.

But it cautioned that further improvement may be more difficult because of efforts to stabilize prices and wages in Western Europe and because of increasing pressure on wages and prices in the United States as full employment approaches.

Army Bans Reds In North Sumatra, Continues Purge

Jakarta (UPI)—The Indonesia Communist Party (PKI) has been banned in the military district of Atjeh in North Sumatra in the army's continuing crackdown on communists.

The ban came despite a plea by President Sukarno for moderation in dealing with the communists.

The official Antara news agency—now under army control—said the ban was ordered by Ihsak Djauza, commander of the Atjeh military district, at a rally attended by 2,000 persons.

The PKI is now banned in nine of Indonesia's 18 military districts. The series of military bans began after Sukarno failed to heed army demands for nationwide abolition of its role in the abortive Oct. 1 coup.

Anonymous Call Warns Police, No Bomb Found

Lincoln police were sent rushing into their backyard to look for "a bomb set to go off in ten minutes" after they received an anonymous call Thursday evening warning them of a bomb.

No bomb was found and no bomb went off.

The caller, who talked to switchboard operator Melissa Christensen about 8:30 p.m., said he was "not involved in planting the bomb."

Boom To Chug Right Into 1966 Deaths And Funerals

Paris (UPI)—The United States economy is likely to continue booming well into 1966 and there are good prospects of the foreign payments deficit being slashed still further, the 21-nation

Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD) predicted Thursday. However, in a survey of the U.S. economy at the year's end, it cautioned that the United States is nearing full employment and may have trouble keeping a tight lid on wages and prices. It also warned that the foreign payments outlook for the latter part of 1966 is uncertain.

OECD member countries are the United States, Canada, Japan and 18 Western European nations. The survey said the 1964 federal tax cut was the "key element" in boosting the nation's economy in the past 18 months.

"The expansion should continue at a high rate well into 1966, influenced by lower excise taxes and higher Social Security benefits and by the increase in defense outlays," the OECD survey predicted. "The outlook beyond the middle of next year is, of course, more uncertain, but the U.S. administration is determined to propose in the 1966-67 budget such action as will be necessary to maintain a satisfactory rate of growth," it said. "Opportunities to adjust the budget in the light of developments during the year may also be important."

The survey said the chief problem in the U.S. domestic economy in recent years has been lack of full utilization of both manpower resources and investments. One of the chief problems in maintaining America's economic expansion, the report said, is that business and private savings may outstrip actual investment. However, it added that, with continuing increases in federal spending in the first half of 1966, it now looks as if demand will rise fast enough to insure expansion at a good rate.

On the foreign deficit problem the OECD survey said an important objective now must be to consolidate the recent improvement and to make further progress towards external balance. The survey said that to achieve elimination about the dollar's parity, it is essential that the virtual stability of prices and labor costs in recent years should be maintained. But it cautioned that further improvement may be more difficult because of efforts to stabilize prices and wages in Western Europe and because of increasing pressure on wages and prices in the United States as full employment approaches.
